VESEY IS CERTAIN TO BE RE-ELECTED

Republicans Are Expecting Many Progressives to Be Back in Line.

Republicans of the Twelfth congressional district will show their allegiance to the party and formally begin their activities in the coming campaign at the district convention to be held tomorrow afternoon at Kendallville for the purpose of electing a district chairman and perfecting the district organization.

In preparation for the convention republicans of Fort Wayne and Allen county will meet this evening at headquarters in the Pixley-Long block. County Chairman George H. Loesch will receive a complete report at this time on the election of delegates last Friday and Saturday, and they will be given their final instructions. Owing to inclement weather reports on the elections have been delayed, and it is doubtful if a complete list will be obtainable even by this evening.

Tonight is also the regular meeting night for the Lincoln Republican club, and it is thought that preliminary arrangements will be made to organize a delegation to attend the meeting and banquet of Lincoln Republican clubs of the state to be held at Indianapolis Thursday evening, following a meeting of the republican state committee.

It Will Be Vesey.

The convention will begin at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Princess theater at Kendallville and there is no doubt in the minds of local members of the party but what Allen J. Vesey of this city will be unanimously re-elected. There are no other candidates at this time and none are expected to spring up prior to the convention tomorrow.

Beautiful Divorcee Weds Her Son's Chum

Redlands, Cal., Feb. 9.—Cupid never reckons birthdays. That's how he happened to ensnare the beautiful Mary Scot Hartje, "just turned 40," and young Stanley Howard, who isn't old enough to vote yet.

Mrs. Hartje-Howard was the central figure in a sensational divorce case three years ago when she was divorced from the Pittsburg multimillionaire, Augustus Hartje. Her youthful second husband is a member of a well known New York family and has been a close chum of Scot Hartje, the new Mrs. Howard's son.

LETTER MAY HOLD MANNING'S FATE

From His Cell He Arranges Funeral for Wife Slain by Miss Herdman.

HELD AS ACCESSORY

Newark, N. J., Feb. 9.—The fate of Charles I. Manning for the love of whom Hazel Herdman shot and killed his wife and then killed herself, may depend upon the contents of the letter which she wrote to Manning before she took poison on Saturday.

While published extracts of the girl's letter, which Manning turned over to the police, in no way implicate him, the police intimated today that it contained certain references which warranted them in holding him as a possible accessory both before and after the crime. They refused to make public the full text of the missive.

Accused as an accessory Manning today was held in custody while funeral services were held over the bodies of the two victims of the love drama of the actors of which he alone remains.

From his cell Manning made the arrangements for the funeral of his wife, while Arthur J. Herdman, the Pompton turnpike inn keeper, claimed the body of his daughter and arranged for its burial.

Early today the police detained Mrs. Sadie E. Carrabrants sister of Manning with whom he has lived since his separation from his wife and she is being held as a material witness in the case.

The charge of murder against Manning was decided upon today after the accused man had been questioned off and on since late Saturday. Statements made by two women and a young man who were also brought to police headquarters influenced the police to make the charge of murder against Manning. One of these witnesses was Mrs. Garrabrants. The identity of the other witnesses were kept a secret by the police.

Miss Herdman attempted to exonerate Manning but Chief Long says that evidence had been obtained tending to show that he was an accessory and that he took Miss Herdman in his automobile to Newark before the murder was committed.

Manning made no effort to escape. On Saturday morning he drove with Miss Herdman to Newark and visited the body of his wife in a morgue. After Miss Herdman had taken poison he carried her in his machine from Bloomfield to the hospital in Montclair and later drove with the girl's mother and sister to the hospital where he was taken into custody by Chief Long.

UNEMPLOYED GET JOBS FROM COLD

Chicago Rushes Hundreds Into the Ice Fields for Harvest.

CROP IS A BIG ONE

Chicago, Feb. 9. Hundreds of Chicago's unemployed were given temporary work today in the ice fields of Wisconsin and Michigan. The zero weather of the last thirty-six hours has produced a big ice crop and harvesting was begun in earnest.

Many of the workers were engaged at the municipal lodging houses and cheap hotels, where they had been driven by the first severe cold of the winter. Hundreds were turned away from the lodging houses last night and were given improvised quarters in police stations.

More than 1,000 men were in a bread line maintained by a private charity, last night. After a day of below zero temperature, the thermometer began to climb slowly early today. Yesterday's minimum temperature was 6.7 degrees below at 8:30 o'clock in the morning. Weather bureau reports show that yesterday was the coldest day experienced in Chicago in two years.

CENTRAL OHIO SHIVERS.

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 9.—The lowest temperatures in Central Ohio this year were recorded early today. The zero mark was touched at Canton and several other points. GERMANS TAKE UP ROOSEVELT TRAIL

Prince and Princess Henry Will Make Tour of South America.

TO COUNTERACT T. R.

Berlin, Feb. 9.—Prince and Princess Henry of Prussia, are about to follow the example of Co. Theodore Roosevelt in visiting Argentina. They are to sail from Hamburg on March 19.

The German newspapers have commented at great length on Col. Roosevelt's journey, urging that it was intended to strengthen the influence of the United States in South America and that Germany should take counteracting steps.

It is thought in many quarters that the voyage of Prince and Princess Henry may be partly for this purpose, although, according to present arrangements, their royal highnesses are to remain in Argentina only for two weeks, making the round trip onboard the new German twin screw steamer Kaptrafalgar. In December the two most powerful German battleships, the super-dreadnoughts Kaiser and Koenig Albert accompanied by the protected cruiser Strassburg left for South American waters to display the German flag.

Mrs. B. C. Peixotto

New York, Feb. 9.—Mrs. Bridget Peixotto, former teacher in New York public schools, will have plenty of time to rock the cradle now. The New York supreme court has handed down a decision to the effect that Mrs. Peixotto cannot be reinstated in the position she resigned more than a year ago because she was to give birth to a child. After the birth of the baby the mother sought reinstatement in the schools; the board of education refused to grant her request and she appealed to the supreme court.

DENIES INTENT TO KILL STULL

Runyan Declares He Shot Only to Protect His Own Life.

GUN WAS BORROWED

Crawfordsville, Ind., Feb. 9.—Walter Runyan resumed testimony in his own behalf at 9 o'clock this morning, when was interrupted when court adjourned Saturday. This is the beginning of the fifth week of the trial, and the third day that Runyan has testified for himself.

Runyan denied that he had any intention of killing Stull and declared he shot only to protect his own life. He said he fired only three shots at Stull and denied that the second shot was fired into Stull's back as he was running away.

The revolver, with which Stull was killed, was borrowed from Runyan's brother Will.

"You had the revolver for the purpose of shooting Arlie, didn't you?" suddenly demanded the state's attorney.

"I did not," answered the witness, who then said that he took the revolver only after his wife had refused to return home unless he was armed.

BIG ICE HARVEST IN ZERO WEATHER

Fort Wayne and vicinity shivered in the first zero weather of the winter, when early this morning the mercury in the government thermometer at the local weather station passed the mark and descended to 4 degrees below. With the appearance of the sun and the disappearance of freezing winds this morning, the temperature took a slight upward flight during the day, but it is believed that zero weather will be encountered again tonight.

TWO PERSONS BITTEN

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 9.—A large, half starved grey wolf, after biting two persons, frightening a score of others and spreading consternation through a staid residence district, was shot and killed on Linwood boulevard here today.

The wolf sprang at Miss Anna Harrison as she waited for a street car. Miss Harrison threw her muff at the animal and while the garment was being torn to pieces, escaped into a house. Her clothing were torn but she was unhurt. The wolf ran down the boulevard pursued by a milkman who hurled bottles as he ran. Two blocks from the first attack the wolf bit a negro in the arm.

The wolf had run fifteen blocks and attacked Samuel J. Haulon, a deputy county collector, before T. W. Wright, a policeman, ended the chase by sending a bullet into the animal's head

DIES IN THAWING OUT WATER PIPES

Body of A. Hauscheigel Found Lifeless in Cellar.

VICTIM OF APOPLEXY

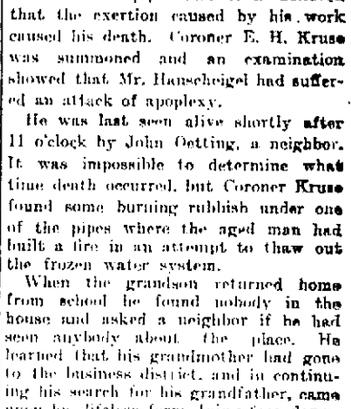

The lifeless body of Anton Hauscheigel, aged seventy-one years, was found in the cellar of his home, 1320 High street, at 12:10 o'clock this afternoon by a grandson, Edward, upon his return from school. The aged man had gone to the cellar to thaw out some frozen water pipes and it is believed that the exertion caused by his work caused his death. Coroner E. H. Kruse was summoned and an examination showed that Mr. Hauscheigel had suffered an attack of apoplexy.

He was last seen alive shortly after 11 o'clock by John Oetting, a neighbor. It was impossible to determine what time death occurred, but Coroner Kruse found some burning rubbish under one of the pipes where the aged man had built a fire in an attempt to thaw out the frozen water system.

When the grandson returned home from school he found nobody in the house and asked a neighbor if he had seen anybody about the place. He learned that his grandmother had gone to the business district, and in continuing his search for his grandfather, came upon his lifeless form, lying face downward on the cellar floor. A briar pipe was still found in the man's mouth.

Mr. Hauscheigel retired from work many years ago and had been in poor health for some time. During the greater portion of the past week he had suffered from severe headaches. Surviving besides the widow he leaves five children, all residing in Chicago, and a number of grandchildren.

Dismiss Chaperon Says Mr. Revell

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Alexander H. Revel, man of wealth and father of one of Chicago's most popular belles, says he does not believe in chaperons for young women. Modesty, honesty and faith implanted in the hearts of young people are offered by him as substitutes for the lynx-eyed dowager in the corner of a ball room.

"When I was a young man," he says, "I was allowed to take the girl who became my wife to entertainments without a chaperon."

READY TO START THE RIVER WORK

Two Army Engineers Are Added to the Canal Survey Staff.

MEETING ON FEB. 27

Edward T. Thomas and R. A. Brown, engineers attached to the staff of the United States board of engineers, reached Fort Wayne today and will make this city their headquarters while they complete the work of taking river measurements a portion of the data necessary to be included in a report for a detailed survey for the proposed deep waterway from Toledo to Lake Michigan by way of Fort Wayne and the Maumee river.

Junior Engineer P. M. Churchill, who has been in active charge of the work done thus far, will leave Tuesday morning with Surveyor M. R. Sutherland for Huntington, and the two will make a cross-country trip over the proposed southern canal route and will go from there to Valparaiso to complete some special work between that place and Lake Michigan.

Messrs. Thomas and Brown, the latter a former member of the Missouri river commission, will take measurements of every river, creek, ditch and lake in this territory, and will report in detail on every bit of water that might be utilized as a feed supply for the canal. Mr. Churchill stated this morning that this is one of the most important features of the preliminary work now being done.

Select Definite Date.

Announcement was made this morning by Perry A. Randall that Friday, February 27, has been selected as the date for the canal convention to be held in this city. This date was agreed upon after a conference had been held for the purpose of deciding between February 24 or February 27. Congressman Cyrus Cline, who is to be one of the speakers, stated that he could be present on either date.

Practically every town through which the canal is to pass in this vicinity is enthusiastic over the prospects for getting the waterway, and each city and village plans to send large delegations to the convention.

Mr. Callahan a Candidate for Prosecutor.

The Sentinel is pleased to announce the candidacy of Stephen A. Callahan for the office of prosecuting attorney, subject to the decision of the democratic nominating primaries.

For three years Mr. Callahan has served in the office of the prosecutor as a deputy, and has had experience both in handling the cases as they arise in police court and in the circuit court. During that time many thousand criminal cases have been handled in these courts.

His ability as a trial lawyer has been given a thorough test in numerous important state cases in which he had an active part and he has demonstrated that he is fully capable of fulfilling the exacting duties of this important office.

Born and reared in Fort Wayne, Mr. Callahan is known to nearly every citizen and commands the admiration and respect of all. He has been active in democratic politics from the time he was old enough to carry a torch light in a parade, has in later years been a member of the democratic central committee, and in the recent city campaign was chairman of the democratic speakers' bureau and since he has made it known that he aspires to the office of prosecuting attorney, has received assurance of support from every section of the county.

The democratic party and the citizens of Allen county in general are to be congratulated upon the fact that men of such experience and ability as Mr. Callahan can be induced to have their names placed before the people for such an important office as this

J.M FINNELL HAD BOTTLE AND FALL

Sat Down on His Flask and Got a Gash That Makes Him a Cripple.

NEWS OF THE POLICE

James Finnell started home late Saturday night toting an overfed bottle souse. He carried the bottle in his pistol pocket. In front of his boarding place on West DeWald street he fell, broke the bottle and the jagged glass made a long and deep slit in one of his cushions. Persons at his boarding house found him on the sidewalk later, unconscious from his souse and the bitter cold. Failing to arouse him they called the police. At the station it was found that Finnell had a gash about six inches long in his loin from which he was bleeding much and Police Surgeon J. Frank Dinnen was called. The surgeon took several stitches to close the ugly wound. It was several hours before the police were able to bring Finnell back to consciousness. In the city court, where he was arraigned on a charge of intoxication this morning, Finnell was able to move only with difficulty. He was allowed to go.

Case Breaks in Again.

Charles Case, who was released Saturday morning on the indefinite continuance of a drunk charge, was back again this morning and drew eleven days. He was arrested at the corner of Broadway and Wall streets, where he was picked up Friday. At the time of his earlier arrest Case had a pair of "knucks" and an assortment of small wrenches that he said he had found.

Aged Woman Given a Chance.

Isabel Wells, an aged and gray-haired woman, was allowed to go on her promise either to find work and keep sober in Fort Wayne or to leave the city at once. She was arrested late Saturday night in the Paradise restaurant, on West Main street, into which place she had carried a rocking souse from the cold air and the warmth of the place overcame her and she went down and out. The woman admitted this morning that she had previously been arrested in this city.

Other City Court Cases.

John Burns and James Riley each lugged a souse to police headquarters Saturday night and wanted to pillow them there. Both were locked up charged with intoxication. Riley, who got out of jail only last Thursday, was sent back there for eleven days and Burns was allowed to go.

William Feely was just conscious enough to be abusive to the officers when he was arrested Saturday at the West Main street bridge. He had been drunk and begging in that region. He got eleven days.

On motion of the prosecuting attorney the case against Carl Ahlers for assault and battery was dismissed. He was arrested at the instance of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Maggie Bothoff, of St. Mary's avenue, late last night. Investigation this morning disclosed that the trouble was bred from the fact that Ahlers and his wife have been trying to live with Mrs. Ahler's parents, an arrangement that has failed to work out.

The case against John Walsh, charged with embezzlement, was continued indefinitely and Walsh will make a settlement with George McCann, from whom he is alleged to have kept the proceeds of some clocks he was selling on commission.

The case against George Shaheen for drunkenness was continued until Wednesday.

John Carson, a drunk, was allowed to go on an indefinite continuance.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN TRIAL DUE.

Alex Gonshor today filed an affidavit against Jake Craig, charging him with breaking windows in the Gonshor home, 1719 Wabash avenue, where Craig threw a flatiron, carrying away the sash and several glass panes. Craig was drunk and got mad when Gonshor would not let him in. Craig paid a fine last week for making an assault on Gonshor.

PUNCHBOARD LID ON TODAY.

To lid went down on the pestiferous punchboard and hidden number cards this morning and Chief of Police Lenz says it will be made airtight and perfectly durable. Many places have already discarded the prohibited gambling devices and little trouble is expected in giving effect to the order of the board of safety to wipe out these games of chance. Bargain sales ruled in the places that had these devices on hand yesterday. Proprietors of stores that had them were trying to get their investments saved before the lid went on.

FROST DRIVES THEM IN.

The zero weather of the last forty-eight hours has caused a rush of business in the hobo lodgings at police headquarters. The room set aside for that purpose and the corridors were filled last night and Saturday night by all ranks and degrees of warfarers who wanted to escape the rigors of the temperature.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

Henry C. Paul Again Heads Fort Wayne Drug Company.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Fort Wayne Drug company was held Saturday afternoon and officers were re-elected as follows: President, Henry C. Paul; vice president, John H. Jacobs; secretary, Henry J. Bowerfind; treasurer, Frederick G. Landenberger.

Jess Rempfroe and Samuel Kerr were arrested and fined last week at Syracuse after nets had been found in their possession by Deputy Game Wardens Rigney and Click.

CITY BREVITIES.

Colonel M. V. Walsh has returned from Milwaukee, where he was a patient at the Sacred Heart sanitrium. His health is much improved.

Attorney Samuel L. Morris, jr., who became ill Saturday afternoon at his office in the Sheaff building, has recovered and was at his office today.

The French-American society will hold its annual dance and pedro party Wednesday evening, February 11, at the Minuet hall, on East Washington boulevard.

A large class of candidates was initiated Saturday night at the regular meeting of Pythian Sisters. The lodge is planning to open a membership campaign soon.

Michael Dennis, elevator operator at the court house, slipped and fell on the pavement at the corner of Andrews and Huffman streets, Saturday evening, and sustained a fracture of the left ankle.

Harry M. Whitticar, of Garrett, a laborer employed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy with Deputy Clerk T. J. Logan at the local federal building. He schedules his liabilities at $265.91 and has no assets. W. W. Sharpless is his attorney.

Albert Lopshire, aged thirty, an employe of the Fort Wayne Electric works, suffered an attack of acute indigestion Saturday evening while waiting in the office of Dr. Dean Metcalf, and when the physician entered the waiting room he found the young man in an unconscious condition.

CAN COURT FORCE DIVORCE UPON THIS WIFE WHO DOESN'T WANT IT?

MRS. M. T. MALONEY.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 9.—Can a court force a divorce upon a wife who doesn't want it and has religious scruples against accepting it, simply because she has proved she is entitled to it?

M. T. Maloney, formerly superintendent of streets here, sued Louise L. Maloney for divorce, on the grounds of desertion and incompatibility. Mrs. Maloney in her answer charged non-support and asked for separate maintenance. She is a Catholic.

Maloney lost his suit, as he admitted having shifted his affections to another woman. Judge Boyd J. Tallman, who heard the case, suggested that the wife take a decree. Mrs. Maloney refused. The court insisted, holding that it was immoral and against public policy to leave the man a husband in name only. For the sake of the three children, too, there should be divorce.

Mrs. Maloney was obdurate. She said that to sever the marriage tie was a sin.

The court took the matter under advisement. Mrs. Maloney's counsel promising to file a brief on the right of the court to grant a decree to a wife against her wishes.

TRACTION HEADS TO INDIANAPOLIS

Utilities Commission May Ask for More Block Signals.

TO HOLD CONFERENCE

General Manager S. W. Greenland, of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company, and President James M. Barrett will go to Indianapolis Tuesday to appear before members of the state public utilities commission for a discussion on block signals.

It is said that all of the electric railways in the state have complied with the state utility law in installing the required milage of block signals, but it is believed that the commission intends to ask for the installation of additional signals. The meeting is to be attended by representatives of all traction companies operating in the state.

The Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company has equipped twenty-five out of a total of 140 miles with block signals and the work was finished within the required length of time fixed by the new law, in spite of the fact that it was almost impossible to secure supplies owing to the enormous demand made on manufacturers by the enforcement of the new law.

Representatives of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana will go to Cleveland during the latter part of the week to attend the regular monthly meeting of the Central Electric Railway association.

WEATHER BEARS HARD ON POOR

Associated Charities Given Work-Out and is Much in Need of Funds.

THE JANUARY REPORT

The rigors of the present cold spell are working extreme hardship on the poor of the city and the Associated Charities is hard pressed to take care of all the appeals made to its assistance. Secretary Mohler is doing the best he can and it is believed the worst of the distress is being relieved. The Associated Charities is badly in need of financial assistance to carry on this work and contributions at this time will be greatly appreciated. Checks for this purpose may be sent to E. H. McDonald, treasurer of the Associated Charities.

During the month of January the total number of applications filed at the office of the Associated Charities was 98, an increase of more than 100 per cent over the corresponding month last year, when the total was 47. The remarkable feature, however, is that the new applicants, 31 in number, exceeded by four those who had been previously known to the office. This may be accounted for in part from the fact that many men are unemployed. The applications represent: Fifty-seven resident families with children, 15 resident families without children, 4 resident single men, 6 resident single women, 9 non-resident men, 2 non-resident women, 5 non-resident families. Assistance of some kind was rendered in 84 cases. At the labor yard 29 men were offered work, of whom 16 worked. Of the 13 who refused the work, 7 were resident men having families and 6 were homeless men. The men who worked earned wages amounting to upwards of $61, and were paid in orders for groceries, fuel, shoes and meals and lodging. Twenty-one women were offered work at the workroom and 13 worked. Additional aid in some of these cases was secured through the Fort Wayne Relief Union, township trustees, Elks order, Visiting Nurse League, Caritas club, Y. P. S. C. E. Union, Hope Hospital Free Bed, churches and individuals. Cash value of aid rendered, aside from personal service, upwards of $265. One applicant gave fictitious address and could not be located, and transportation to another city was secured for one. The arrest, prosecution and conviction was secured in the case of a man who deserted his family. Permanent employment was obtained for one man, and temporary work was secured for two persons. The applications represented 187 adults and 215 children. The general secretary made 81 calls in connection with his work, received 154 telephone and 162 personal calls at his office.

TRIAL MARRIAGE 25 YEARS FAILS

Wife Now Says He Was Unfaithful and Asks Separation.

HAVE DAUGHTER 22

New York, Feb. 9.—What appears to be the original trial marriage came to light in Supreme Court when Hattie Gilon filed an action for separation from Franklin L. Gilon, who is employed in the Supreme Court.

Back in 1889 trial marriages were not known by that name, but the man and woman who figure in the present action entered into such an agreement. Mrs. Gilon says that they mutually promised to take each other for husband and wife and agreed to certain rules by which they would live. From the papers it was learned that—

She was going on with her work and retain all money she earned.

He was to do the same with his money, except that he was to pay the rent and buy the food.

She was to take his name.

Any children born were to bear his name.

She was not to pay him money.

He was not to borrow from her.

Mrs. Gilon alleges she kept on at her work as forelady in furnishing houses and sometimes earned $30 or $35 a week. In every way, she asserts, she lived up to the contract, but alleges that Mr. Gilon did not. She accuses him of associating with "pretty blondes who wore glasses" after they had lived together under their contract for fifteen years.

It is related that Mr. and Mrs. Gilon resided at No. 311 West Twenty-ninth street, with their daughter, Dorothy, now twenty-two years old. After the trial became a failure, in 1907, Mrs. Gilon asserts Mr. Gilon offered her a marriage certificate, which sh believed to be false and which she refused to sign. She says:—

"I already had been his wife for eighteen years, and that is why I did not sign it. Then he began to go with other women, but all the while he wrote letters to our daughter and signed himself 'Papa.'"

Gilon says the woman who calls herself Mrs. Gilon is really Hattie Tomlinson and when they met she also was known as Mrs. Sam Adams. He denied there was any agreement concerning a marriage and says the subject was not even discussed.

"In 1891," he says, she disappeared, and when she came back she brought an infant girl. She asked me to allow the child to think I was her father. I did, and gave the child my name, and to carry out this arrangement I wrote Dorothy letters calling her my daughter."

Gilon asserts that in October, 1913, Mrs. Gilon appeared in the court house and told him if he did not marry her by two o'clock the next day she would consult the district attorney. He says he told her to consult him if she so desired, as he had tolerated her for years until he saw the folly of the arrangement.

HE WAS A GOOD GOER.

Don't you like going to school?"

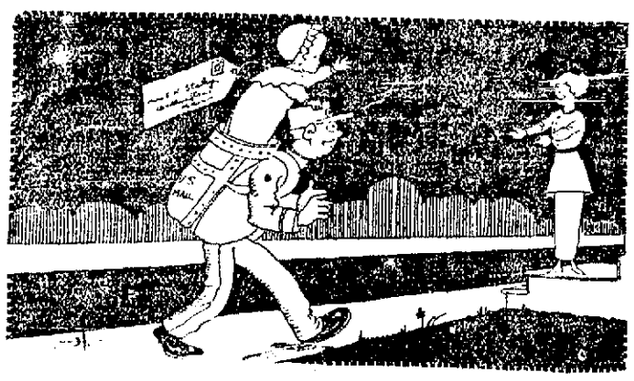

"I don't mind going there, but I don't like stopping there after I get there."

The state board of the Indiana School for Feeble Minded Youths met in regular monthly session this afternoon at the school.

William C. Stellhorn went to Auburn this morning to attend to some business.

Ben Hur court, No. 15, will give its usual social and dance next Wednesday evening. All members and their families are invited.

POSTMAN BEARS SMALL PARCEL OF HUMANITY MAILED BY GRANDMA TO AUNT.

Wellington, Kan., Feb. 9.—"Parcel post package for you, ma'am," said the mailman to Mrs. E. H. Staley, of this city.

Mrs. Staley gasped and collapsed. The mailman was presenting to her her small nephew, Edgar, aged two, all neatly tagged, addressed and stamped. Edgar, when she had last heard of him, was staying with his grandmother in Stratford, Okla. It seems grandmother had had enough of the youngster's company, and so had mailed him to her daughter. The postage was 18 cents. Edgar enjoyed the trip very much, especially eating lunch in the mail car with the clerks.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Matthew 5:1-16.

1 And seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain; and when he was set, his disciples came unto him:

2 And he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying,

3 Blessed are the poor in spirit; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

4 Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.

5 Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth.

6 Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled.

7 Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

8 Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

9 Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God.

10 Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.

11 Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.

12 Rejoice, and be exceeding glad: for great is your reward in heaven: for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you.

13 Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? It is henceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under the foot of men.

14 Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid.

15 Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick: and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.

16 Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is inheaven.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1914.

Honesty in Public Life.

Speaker Clark, in the course of a recent address, takes occasion to come to the defense of public men of the present day in the face of occasional direct charge and more or less frequent insinuation of corruption and dishonesty in public life. The people's representatives in Washington, he said, were honest, conscientious servants, and he pointed out the fact that ninety-nine per cent. of the men sent to congress leave poorer than they come, although they could acquire fortunes by stooping to dishonesty.

As a matter of fact, the speaker is doubtless entirely correct, and his admitted indignation over the aspersions cast upon his associates well-grounded. We have had much of muck-raking during the past few years. Some of it was clearly justified and has been productive of results distinctly beneficial. But admittedly there has been much that lacked justification and served no purpose other than to cast unjust suspicion against men whose motives and whose actions were misjudged and misunderstood. We have had a multiplicity of investigations of one sort and another that, after all is said and done, did not disclose the "pay dirt" of graft and crookedness but thinly veiled in charges that brought them about. An instance in point is the celebrated probe into the lobby operations, which, while they revealed the use of questionable tactics in the attempt to influence legislation, were practically without result as showing crooked participation by any member of congress.

Suspicion is about the easiest thing in the world to create. A look, a word, a single action is sufficient to give it start in either public or private life, and the man in public life is inevitably the more inviting target for shafts of this character. Human nature is as a rule never more unfair than when judging the actions and the motives of those whose views and whose course are along lines different from those we individually travel. As a matter of fact, instances of personal knowledge of crookedness in public life are remarkably rare. It is unreasonable and unjust to assume that elevation to public life transforms the decent citizen into the grafter. The speaker's defense of his associates in public life may do little toward removing the condition of which he complains, but his effort was at least worth while.

Replying to the inquiry of foreign governments, Senor Huerta, of Mexico, again announces that he is preparing to launch determined and decisive action against the rebels. By and by it will be noticed that while Dictator Huerta is invariably doing just that the constitutionalists are winning by far the larger proportion of the victories. As a launcher Huerta is the most brilliant success of the present century. It is as a finisher that he fails to measure up to standard.

The proposal to establish at the city hall a municipal department in which laboratory tests will be made of all materials used in street paving and other public work is a long step in the right direction, and one The Sentinel has frequently urged. The tax-payer whose money pays for improvements is entitled to know absolutely that he is getting what he pays for, and the laboratory test is the one method by which this can be ascertained.

Dean Boynton, of the University of Chicago, has taken a stand for more study and not so much athletics in the higher schools of the country, and takes the position that the student should study or be made to get out. Really we have hoped that that sort of view would catch hold somewhere before long.

We might as well be decent about it first as last and tender our most profound and abject apologies to the groundhog at once.

ONE THING CHILDREN SHOULD KNOW.

(Indianapolis Star.)

A high school girl who disappeared from her home in Brooklyn, N. Y., early this week, was found in Chicago on her arrival at a railroad station by an agent of the Y. W. C. A., whose duty it is to look after young girls and women who are alone and seem to need attention. The child, for she is little more, had $12 in her pocket and an idea in her mind of earning money by securing employment with a moving picture show. She was fortunate in having her identity discovered so soon, for even if she had been lucky enough to escape other dangers and to land in a reputable place, she would have been in distress as soon as her money vanished.

Cases of her kind are very common. Girls and even older women start out with visions of making their living in some honest occupation or other, but with nothing definite before them and only the high hopes and vague dreams of youth to sustain them. As often as not they have little or no money and trust to luck to find employment at once—a trust which is more than likely to be shattered.

It is not a matter for surprise that girls should make these ventures. Boys are continually starting out in the same rash way, their course being understood of all men as a manifestation of the desire for adventure and a wish to make a fortune. Girls are animated by a similar motive, but their knowledge of the world and its ways is even less and they suffer greater risks. They are singularly lacking in a familiarity with the value of money and with the difficulty or getting it. They are not to blame for this, but their parents are. They have never had money of their own to spend except in trifling amounts. Ten dollars seems a large sum to most schoolgirls and they learn by painful experience how quickly it melts away.

A good many of the painful things that happen to girls of the carefully sheltered class might be prevented if they were instructed from early childhood in the science of spending money, were taught what a dollar would buy and were given from time to time enlightenment in regard to the difficulty to the unskilled of finding employment among strangers. Such teaching is useful to boys also, but many of them lack it. The imagination and innocent hopefulness of youth will always carry boys and girls into undertakings whose recklessness they do not know, but some of the risks they take could be lessened by proper home training.

THE BUSINESS OF BOSSING.

(Kansas City Times.)

A New York boss who sold a nomination for a judgeship told the court before being sentenced that he had no fear because he had committed no crime. "As a boss," he said, "every man I ever elevated to position has filled that position with credit."

To be sure. The boss is a public benefactor. The public is busy and incompetent to run its own affairs. So the boss steps in and says: "Kindly permit me to relieve you of the trouble. I am an expert. I make politics my business. I know whom you ought to have for your job. I will pick him out and you needn't bother a bit. I thank you."

Nothing could be simpler. As to the boss' means of support, why pursue a fruitless inquiry? "Politics," said this New York boss, speaking for all bosses, "was merely a hobby with me. Politics is the greatest charity in the world."

It's a mere hobby with them all, and the greatest charity in the world.

Recognized Advantages.

You will find that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has recognized advantages over most medicines in use for cough and colds. It does not suppress a cough, but loosens and relieves it. FIRE AS MARSHALL ENDS HIS ADDRESS

Flames Burst Through the Stage in Washington Theater.

2,000 IN AUDIENCE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—While 2,000 persons were leaving Poli's theater yesterday afternoon flames burst through the stage from which Vice President Marshall and Secretary of State Bryan had addressed the first of a series of inter-denominational Bible conferences to be held throughout the country. But the audience passed out oblivious of the danger.

The fire had been burning beneath the stage for some time apparently. Had the flames appeared ten minutes earlier a disaster might have resulted. The aisles of the theater were jammed and every other available foot of space in the auditorium was occupied during the meeting.

Fire Felt by Ministers.

Tongues of flame spurted through auger holes in the floor of the stage and licked the trouser legs of some of the ministers seated on the platform. The Rev. A. H. Zimmerman of Washington, was the first to feel the flames at his legs, and, though he moved quickly, he maintained his own presence of mind and uttered a low word of warning to the men about him.

Then he ran into the wings and called Fireman M. W. Fare, who was on duty in the theater.

Fare took a look at the flames, another at the emptying aisles and then turned in an alarm. It was only when the fire engines clanged up to the theater that the hundreds outside learned the danger they had been in. Although the theater was full of smoke, the firemen had little difficulty in extinguishing the blaze.

Urges Old Fashioned Religion.

Vice President Marshall, who presided over the conference, had just left the platform when the fire was discovered. Mr. Marshall, introducing one of the speakers, said that this government never can have real stability "until the people of the United States return to the old fashioned religion."

Secretary Bryan said in his address that he fully believed the miracles related in the Bible, which, he added, had proved itself a much better book than any "best seller."

OH NO, NOT THESE FOR EASTER ISLE

Anywhere Else on Earth for Wives Declare the Sailors.

THERE SIX MONTHS

San Francisco, Feb. 9.—Mellow sunshine, a temperate climate; a land of flowers, bright days and balmy nights; a land where olive skinned maidens, who have countless herds of cattle, smile sweetly as you stroll with them beneath the palms—that's a comic opera setting. But unfortunately it doesn't describe the Easter Islands.

Sturdy young men who would consent to spend a life of ease as the husbands of rich dusky belles of the Easter Islands group in the south seas should investigate the island paradise thoroughly before engaging passage, is the advise of the seven members of the castaway crew of the abandoned schooner Eldorado, who arrived here from Sydney, Australia.

A Mate With Them.

The Eldorado's company returning included J. Wilson, mate; S. Brawster, Rudolph Wolberg, A. H. Johanso, Carl Carlson, Charles Cassavain and S. R. Walk.

These seven men are home in the United States, under the stars and stripes after five and one-half months' forced sojourn there, and they have no lingering longing for the tropics.

There were eight sailors originally—one of them left the others in Australia—when they were forced to abandon the sinking Eldorado in the open sea several months ago. After drifting about aimlessly in an open boat several weeks they arrived at the Easter Islands. The natives were friendly and cared for them.

No Place For a White Man.

Take from those who've been to the Easter Island group—it's two thousand miles off the coast of South America in the south Pacific—so far it's hard to find it on the map—it's no place for a white man.

Shortly after the Annie M. Campbell, a trading schooner, touched at another part of the group. Natives informed Capt. Burgeson of the castaways, but told him they were happy.

Following his return to San Francisco, stories were spread broadcast of the delights of the life that had weaned the sailors from civilization. It was asserted that they were all wedded to the belles of the islands all of whom were beautiful and the possessors of much wealth.

Too Far to Send a Ship.

However, some kindly disposed persons in the United States determined that was no plight for a perfectly good American sailor man. But since the islands are several thousands miles out of the course of the trans-Pacific liners, their rescue was left to the government.

Plans were made to send a revenue cutter from Honolulu, but after some deliberation the Secretary of the Treasury decided that he had no vessel available that could carry coal enough for the journey.

Finally, while the United States government was still deliberating, the British tramp freighter, Knight of the Garter, was forced to put in at the lonely island harbor to repair a broken propeller the sailors begged to be taken aboard and transported to Sydney. The master consented. From Sydney they came immediately to San Francisco, arriving here aboard the Ventura.

Married! Not They.

Now as to the paradise. With one voice the seven proclaim they are not married, and that nothing could induce them to marry any Easter islander they ever set eyes on. Further, had they not realized that it meant death, they say they would have taken a chance in an open boat to escape the place.

The "birds of paradise" are not olive skinned but chocolate colored; not beautiful and graceful, but ugly, fat and dirty. Further, the castaways say one string of beads is the extent of the worldly possessions of any of them.

"There was only one other white man on the islands," said one of the sailors here tonight. "He was the British governor. I know he'd give his right arm to be walking down the strand tonight—even with a couple of housemaids."

The second annual card party and reception of the Lyceum Athletic association will be held Tuesday evening in the auditorium of St. Patrick's lyceum building and a large attendance is anticipated. PAJAMA COP NABS BURGLAR.

Negro Broke Into Home of Bluecoat Undaunted by Cold.

New York, Feb. 9.—The negro who broke into 2243 Valentine avenue, the Bronx early the other morning, did not know he was invading the home of Policeman Philip J. Brennan, a new member of the force, who thinks nothing of dashing out into a winter night, barefooted and clad only in pajamas, to run down a burglar.

In the middle of a vacant lot the negro stood his ground and Brennan clinched with him, using the butt of his revolver as a club. He had to give the negro a severe beating before he subdued him. Then he led him back to the disturbed home.

While Brennan dressed leisurely, the negro lay handcuffed, with his feet tied to the bed, after which the policeman escorted his prisoner to the police station, charging him with burglary.

FARMER "CAPTURES" FOX.

Defeats Purposes of Riding and Hunt Club Members.

Washington, Feb. 9.—A fox turned loose in a hunt of the Riding and Hunt club the other morning was "captured" by a farmer.

The fox, after being liberated, trotted out the Rockville pike, where it was seen by a farmer. The latter, with well-directed aim, brought the fox to earth with a stone. He picked up Reynard and put him in his wagon. A short time later the hounds and hunters appeared. The dogs tracked the fox to the farmer's wagon. An explanation was given by the farmer, who later turned the fox over to the hunters.

With a bad case of "headache," the fox was taken to the club quarters, where it was nursed back to "life," to be turned loose later for another hunt.

CO-OPERATION IS THE FIRST MOVE

Flood Prevention Legislative Body Will Seek Aid of Other Cities.

NEWS OF CITY HALL

The co-operation of other Indiana cities that are in need of flood prevention laws will be the first thing sought by the legislative board of the Fort Wayne flood prevention movement. Huntington, Wabash, Peru, Logansport, Lafayette, Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Vincennes, Ohio river cities and many other cities and towns in Indiana have flood problems to solve and the financial phases of them in common with similar phases of the Fort Wayne situation constitute the most immediate question. Fort Wayne, while probably having made the most signal advance in plans for preventing future ravages by high water and by reason of that perhaps in a better position to lead in the work of securing legislation, can hardly hope to procure unaided laws that are essential to the task of financing her big projects.

Mayor William J. Hosey, President of the Council William A. Bayer, President of the County Board of Commissioners James D. Butt, City Attorney Guy Colerick and County Attorney Edward G. Hoffman, who compose the legislative committee, will meet tomorrow afternoon at the city hall to organize and discuss the first steps to be taken in the discharge of their functions, which are to get necessary legislation. Messrs. Hosey, Bayer and Butt, designated by resolution of the council as three members of the committee with power to choose two others, met Saturday and selected Colerick and Hoffman. It was determined that the three members of the city board of works and the other two members of the county board of commissioners should be asked to attend all meetings of the committee and Board Members Frank E. Singtey, Robert E. Kelly and Henry Hilgemann and Commissioners William C. Schwier and Albert J. Black will be in attendance at tomorrow's meeting.

More Than Financial Problems.

"There are more than financial problems to be considered in our flood prevention plans," said Mayor Hosey today. "We have plans prepared, but we have got to consider how these are going to be viewed both by the people who will be assessed to pay for carrying them out and by people who will be affected by them in other ways. These phases of the question will probably be closely considered by the legislature when it is asked to give us the laws we need. Our committee's functions are to procure legislation and that is what we shall attempt to do by enlisting the aid of other cities with similar problems to solve. I can foresee some great difficulties in carrying out the plans we have and if we do not meet with stout resistance in the courts my judgment will be modest."

FOR CONVENIENCE OF DOCTORS.

Electrical Incubator to Be Placed in Police Headquarters.

The board of health will purchase an electrical incubator of the sort used to develop cultures of disease germs and place it in police headquarters. This will be done for the convenience of physicians who have cultures to submit in the evening or on Sunday when the health office is closed. The incubator will save valuable time in many cases in determining the nature of cultures, especially in suspected cases of diphtheria, when often a few hours are of vital consequence. Physicians may take their cultures to the station in the evening or on Sunday, place them in the incubator and enable the officers of the health department to get a determination without loss of time. C. H. O. Bruggeman, president of the board of health, who suggested the supplementary incubator, says that this convenience has been fully tested in many other cities.

TO ELECT TRUSTEES.

Police and Firemen to Choose Members of Pension Boards.

The members of the police and fire department forces will tonight hold elections to choose members of the board of trustees of their respective bodies to administer the pension funds. The members of the police department will vote tonight between 5 and 7 o'clock. The terms of Trustees David Blum and Marion G. Madden, of the police board, are about to expire. Officers Dan Kintz, Harry Grimme and Gustave Lauer are candidates for the two vacancies. The term of Joseph Byanski, of the firemen's board, is about to expire and the candidates are Charles Winbaugh, of central engine house; J. Howard, of No. 3; John Hilgeman, of No. 4; E. Tigges, of No. 5; John Meyers, of No. 6, and J. Byanski, of No. 8, who is a candidate for re-election.

The police pension board will have a meeting tomorrow afternoon in the city court room.

TO WIDEN ST. JOE BOULEVARD.

Board of Works Makes Up Assessment Roll of Benefits and Damages.

The board of works has had the assessment roll of benefits and damages for the widening of St. Joe boulevard made up by City Engineer Randall. The boulevard will be made from one to nine feet wider for the distance between Lake avenue and McDougall avenue, taking the property necessary from the east side. The purpose is to correct irregularities in the width of the river bank and to make room for pavement and sidewalk. The question of protecting Lakeside from floods in the St. Joe river enters into the improvement. The cost of the improvement is not going to be heavy and benefits and damages will be slight as they affect all the property along the line.

ASKS FOR APPROPRIATION.

Park Board Needs Money to Pay for Sewer Assessment.

An ordinance will be sent to the city council tomorrow night by Comptroller W. C. Baade asking for the appropriation of $696.66 to the park board account to enable that body to pay the assessment laid against Reservoir park for the Murray street sewer. In a letter to the comptroller asking for the appropriation the park board says it has been customary for the board of works to pay such bills, but that Mayor Hosey and the board of works feel it would be more in accordance with the rulings of the state accounting board for the park board to take care of the assessment and the money is accordingly asked for.

BOSTON WANTS INFORMATION.

City Engineer Frank M. Randall has received a letter from Arthur A. Shurtleff, landscape architect, of Boston, and an advisor to the Boston park department, asking for information and illustrations relating to the "admirable system of street lights" on the "main street" of Fort Wayne. It is readily assumed that the fame of Fort Wayne ornamental lighting achievements is spreading far.

POLISHING UP WELCOME SIGN

Considerable outside interest attaches to the republican district convention, principally due to the fact that not long ago word was sent broadcast in a letter by the district chairman declaring that all voters who cast their lot with the progressives in the 1912 campaign will be welcomed back into the ranks of the G. O. P. and given a voice in all deliberations, regardless of the fact that they deserted the party during the last national battle for ballots. Progressives, republicans and democrats are eager to see what the result will be tomorrow.

Important political meetings are scheduled for each remaining week of this month. The republican convention tomorrow will be followed in just one week by a mass gathering of Allen county and Fort Wayne progressives, to be held February 19 at the Aldine building. Just one week from that date, or on February 26, the democratic congressional convention is to be held at Auburn. In the meantime numerous conferences, both county and district, representing all political parties, will be held at frequent intervals.

Miller for Auditor.

Albert T. Miller, one of the county's best known democrats, has announced himself as a candidate for county auditor, subject to the democratic nominating primaries. Eight years ago he was appointed deputy auditor, a position which he filled with credit, and his friends believe he has an excellent chance to land the nomination. Mr. Miller was born and reared in Fort Wayne and at present resides on Hanna street with his wife and two children.

Othet Announcements.

Since Saturday several others have launched their campaigns for nomination in the coming primaries, and among those made public is the name of Stephen A. Callahan for prosecuting attorney. Mr. Callahan has served as deputy prosecutor with Prosecutor H. H. Hilgeman.

Allen Hamilton announces himself as a candidate for trustee of Wayne township on the democratic ticket, and John Belot has made public his candidacy for the democratic nomination for county clerk.

SHOULD NOT BE BINDING

The president feels that a platform declaration on such a subject is related to circumstances that arise all over the world as well as in the United States and that only elements which the United States can control in the situation ought to be binding. He feels that a change of circumstances has arisen in the international aspect of the situation which necessarily would change the attitude of the American government and the attitude of the country on the subject.

Mr. Wilson told callers today that the whole international situation and the point of view of foreign governments was to some extent involved in the settlement of the controversy. He intimated that platform declarations should be limited to matters of domestic policy and should not embrace relations with foreign governments.

It is said to be the president's view that treaty relations with other nations might be embarrassed if what is construed as a violation of the Hay-Pauncefote convention were to be insisted upon by the United States. It was made clear, however, that only England had protested. The president told callers that Great Britain through her representatives had not approached the American question in any way since Ambassador Bryce left here a year ago.

The president told callers he did not intend to send a message to congress on the subject of the Panama tolls; that he felt his attitude had been safely made clear in a recent letter to Wm. ... Salisbury, of Baltimore. He expects congress to repeal the tolls provision during the present session.

Is Again Deferred.

Consideration of the proposed constitutional amendment for women suffrage was deferred again in the senate today because several senators gave notice they wished to discuss it late. A large gathering of suffrage supporters which packed the galleries expecting to see the resolution pass was disappointed.

The question came before that body in the shape of a resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution extending the right of suffrage to women. The resolution was first on the calendar of business in the senate and as there was no unfinished business before that body, it was called in after the routine morning business had been disposed of. When Senator Ashurt of Arizona, who is sponsor for the resolution called it up there were present in the galleries woman suffrage leaders and many friends of the cause.

Pass Fortification Bill.

The senate today passed the fortification appropriation bill carrying $6,895,200 and materially increasing the house appropriation for artillery and ammunition. Preparedness of the United States for war entered into the debate on the bill.

Senator Bryan said the increases would go to meet as nearly as possible the estimate for an army of half a million men. "If there are only 76,000 men in the army now, why should we have an army of half a million men?" asked Senator Sheppard.

"So as to be prepared for war," replied Senator Bryan. "While we had only 20,000 men operating around Santiago in the Spanish-American war, we had some quarter of a million men enlisted. With this allowance of guns, Americans still have less guns per man than any other first class power. We would have about the same proportion as Bulgaria and Servia. We should remember it takes years to make these guns."

"Think of the great Pacific coast without enough powder to last thirty minutes under attack," exclaimed Senator Warren.

Senator Smoot said the lack of ammunition was almost criminal.

"Even Mexico possesses more mobile guns than we do," said he.

Senator Ashurt attacked the appropriations as extravagant. "We are now spending 65 cents of every dollar raised by the federal government for wars past, or which we think or pretend to think are in the future."

Senator Ashurt retorted there were "patriots for profit only" in the country who "filled the country with alarms of war," because they had armor plate or powder to sell. Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military committee, pleaded for a more efficient army as the best method of keeping peace.

"I do not think I am out of place in saying that the situation now confronting this country is a delicate one," he added. "I hope we never will have trouble but we ought to be prepared for trouble if it ever comes."

SHORTAGE MAY BE A MILLION

state institution, are alleged to be short between $700,000 and $1,000,000. State banking officials ordered the institution closed after the reputed shortage became known yesterday.

Ten directors of the bank today filed a petition today in chancery court charging that the bank was insolvent as the result of the alleged misappropriation of more than $700,000 by Raine.

Held Solely Responsible.

In the petition Rainey was held solely responsible for the apparent shortage, approximately $788,804 which it is charged he obtained "by a system of handling drafts, property and exchange in such a way as to deceive the directors and to conceal his manipulations the total amount of which it is alleged he lost in speculation.

The petition places the liabilities of the bank at approximately $2,196,894 with assets of $1,408,089.

At the meeting of the directors it is said that Raine asserted that none of the other officials of the bank knew of the discrepancies and turned over his personal estate said tobe worth approximately $350,000. The Merchantile bank is capitalized at $200,000. Its last published statements shows assets of about two and a half million dollars.

The bank was ordered to remain ... making an investigation. It is not known when the investigation will be completed.

The warrant was served on Mr. Raine at his home. He was taken before Criminal Judge Palmer, where he pleaded guilty. Despite his protest that he did not want any bond fixed, Judge Palmer placed the amount at $250,000, but Mr. Raine declared he would make no effort to get the security and accompanied a deputy sheriff to the county jail.

NEEDN'T TELL EXACT AGE.

"Select Good Probable Age," Attorney's Advice to Women Voters.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Women voters do not have to tell their exact ages to election officials; they can approximate the truth. This was the advice of Charles H. Mitchell, attorney for the board of election commissioners, in an address yesterday before members of the woman's party of Cook county. "You can approximate the truth and it will do no one any harm," said Mitchell. "Select a good probable age—one that fits your face and your figure—and tell the officials that age. It is simply a check on fraud anyway. It prevents others from impersonating you at the polls. I have known men who have remained stationary in age for fifteen years so far as the registration books are concerned."

WAS AN UNCLE OF COLFAX.

Giles Mandeville Dies at Hartford at Age of 99 Years.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 9.—Giles Mandeville, a well known contractor and an uncle of Schuyler Colfax, vice president of the United States during President Grant's first term, died here today, aged 99.

LOOM-END SALE

Opens Tomorrow Morning at 9 O'clock AND CONTINUES TWO WEEKS

The Frank Dry Goods Co.'s Annual Loom-End Sales have become household words--looked for, months ahead--watched for, by countless thousands of patrons throughout Northern Indiana

The Story of Little Loom End

A busy day in the big factory was almost closing, when Little Loom-End was turned off the large loom in the corner. She was just as good and just as pretty as the other pieces turned off before her, but she was only two yards long and could never be sold by the yard.

So Little Loom-End was laid aside with hundreds of other short ends like herself, until wearing season was over. Then they were all wrapped in a great bundle. Little Loom-End could feel herself being thrown on the scales and weighed. She could hear the train-bell and feel the cars shake as they rushed along, but she could see nothing. Suddenly the bundle was opened and Little Loom-End stretched herself and looked around.

The Old Counter whispered to her not to be afraid, for she would soon be sold to some happy woman to make into a comfort or apron or little girl's dress. "Thousands, like you are sold here at Frank's each year," he said. So Little Loom-End waits eagerly for Tuesday morning.

Indians in Oklahoma Give Our Language a Style

AS THEY REPORT IT

Weatherford, Ok., Feb. 9.—A weekly newspaper, published at the Cheyenne Indian sub-agency at Colony, a small town south of this place, has numerous neighborhood correspondents who are Indians. In "writing up" local news these peculiarly Indian turn to their use of the English language. ... or typical bits of Indian news from this newspaper, the Courier:

Ada Bear Bow has applied for divorce. She was married to Cheyenne Mexican, Northern Cheyenne from Tongue River agency, Montana. Cheyenne Mexican deserted her three years ago and went back to Tongue River agency and was reported that he had married another woman up there and was put in jail for it.

Party of Northern Cheyennes from Montana are visiting Southern Cheyennes, good many of them are related to one another.

Oscar Bull Bear has gone after his tepee poles at Clinton. These poles were shipped from Montana.

Little Bird was called from Geary, Thunder, his relative, is very sick of tuberculosis. Thunder went to Shoshone agency, Wyoming, to take baths in Hot Springs up there but the hot baths did him no good. The great trouble with the Indians in going to these hot springs they do not take these hot baths long enough to do them any good.

Indians Still Love to Hunt.

Cheyennes and Arapahoes wish to know if they have to have hunting licenses same as pale faces to hunt quail and rabbits on Indian allotments. Creeping Bear is going to buy him shotgun to kill quail and jackrabbits. He was told that he would have to get hunting license to kill these just the same.

Hammer Creeping Bear's baby is named Yellow Buffalo Calf.

Big Face, wife of Watan, came into Colony to make lease on Bear Man's allotment, her deceased son. Watan and his family are living on the Night Walker's allotment on Washita.

Night and Singing Pipe have put their son, Bird Night, in Seger school. Bird Night was glad to be put in school so that he can play with the boys that are already in school.

Creeping Bear Is Broke.

Creeping Bear is going to buy milch cow. His wife, Bald Head, pays for the cow, as Creeping Bear is busted and has no money himself.

The Crows bought nice heating stove from Wauchope & Paulson; also bought ton of coal and ton of hay. Two Crows says he is going to live like Pale Face hereafter. Last summer he went out on Boggy creek and lived with Bad Teeth and his family. Two Crows says he had lots of turtles and fish to eat while out there.

Old Antelope Woman, mother of Bad Teeth, died November 10, of old age. She was 86 years old and a widow. One time she was wife of Little Big Jake; they separated some fifty years ago. Big Jake married Yellow Woman. At the time of his death she survived him. Antelope Woman left only three heirs, as old as she was, Bad Teeth, son; Paul Goose Grandson; Prudi Two Crows, granddaughter. She has sister living, older than she, Twin Woman, who is four years older than Antelope Woman.

Andrew Throwing Water and Jessie Handley have a baby girl, born November 19. They named her Bessie Throwing Water.

Big Face, wife of Watan, says Pale Faces are getting too thick around her house. She wants to move to Washita river to live.

An Indian Divorcee Weds.

Big Indian wedding will take place at Hail's allotment near the Red Hills. Nelson Sage Bark and Grace Powder Face will get married according to Indian custom. They were married first somewhere as pale face's ways. Sage Bark's family and their relations have gone over there to be present at the Indian wedding. There will be good many Arapahoes as they are going to have some doings at Hail's allotments. Grace Powder Face was formerly married to Short Nose, Cheyenne, but was separated some time ago.

Cosh, John Washee's mother, who is 79 years old and blind, was with her grandson, Tom Rouse Washee, on the train when it was wrecked east of Weatherford last week. When she arrived at destination near Calumet she instructed Tom to come for her in a lumber wagon to take her home in, as she doesn't want to ride on a train any more. She says it is too dangerous.

Bau Flinger, old Cheyenne woman, 78 years old, is dressing fine buckskin from the hide of deer that was killed from deer park by school children to feast on Thanksgiving day. This deer was very fat.

TRAVELS 40,000 MILES AT EIGHTY

Veteran Missionary Made Record Trip in Six Months.

FEELS LIKE A BOY

Dallas, Texas, Jan. 30.—Dr. R. C. Buckner, of this city, who looks as if he might be eighty years old, and is that age, yet has the good fortune to feel as if he were twenty-five, has just returned from one of the most remarkable missionary trips ever accomplished, covering forty thousand miles in six months. He is convinced that his gray hair, wrinkles and the whole "disguise that has grown about a mere boy" aided him in his work, and that had he been handicapped with the appearance of youth such as he boasts his efforts would have been practically useless.

After preaching to the natives in Japan and the Phillipine islands, Dr. Buckner took a long and perilous trip into the interior of China, where, with the aid of an interpreter, he preached to the fierce and uncivilized heathen of some of the walled cities. Everywhere, he says, he felt a queer guilt at looking so old, for he realized that respect for his age won him consideration among these savage people. His trip was a success in every way and he has expressed himself as anxious to repeat it if opportunity offers.

Dr. Buckner founded the Buckner Orphan's Home near here, and was presented with $80,000 when he reached his eightieth year last March. He immediately started on his long journey.

Miss Lois Bond daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bond, of Fairfield avenue, who has been seriously ill for three weeks, suffering from an attack of inflamatory rheumatism, shows some improvement today.

PAYNE BOXER IS VERY CONFIDENT

Fact That He is to Meet Old Ring General Not Worrying Him.

EXPECT FAST COMBATS

Hal Stewart, the Payne, O., battler, is in Fort Wayne and his supporters say that the fact that he is to be a head liner in the Princess rink boxing card tonight and that he is to have his first experience as the big noise and is to meet an old ring general is not bothering him one bit.

For some time he has been trying to get on as one of the principals in the chief event of a Summit City Athletic club and Manager George Biemer determined to accommodate him and at the same time try an experiment.

While Stewart is expected to put on a good match with Tommy Devlin he is not in position to demand as much money as some of the men with reputations. There has been a cry for popular prices and the experiment will be tried out tonight and if it is not successful there is little probability that the boxing game will be continued.

The margin of profit was so small in the last card here that it disgusted the promoters and unless popular-priced affairs will yield better revenue there is no reason why the game should be kept alive. Tommy Devlin is an excellent trial horse for Stewart. He can draw the youngster out and find what claim he has to advance in the fistic game.

Stewart has lots of friends here and his former appearances justify a chance at the top of the card and his work will be watched with interest. Eddie Santry arrived during the day and will be the third man in the ring in all the bouts.

He brought along with him Clint Flynn, who is carded to meet Frankie Mason. He has seen Flynn in action and is familiar with Mason's work and he gives as his opinion that the semi-windup will be a match worth seeing.

Mason promised when he signed he would get into good condition before the battle and he says he will be right when he puts up his hands against the new opponent who has been out on the coast boxing in the preliminaries there.

Holzhauer, a local boxer, is booked to meet Kid Arndt, of Milwaukee, and Jack Swain and Kid White, of this city, will open the bill.

CANADIAN MAKES ANOTHER THREAT

Says It Will Apply for Protection in Youngstown Field.

NO BASE BALL PLANT

Youngstown, O., Feb. 9.—Youngstown is going to have a ball club. The magnates of the Canadian league are going to wish a franchise on this city, and all just because Paul Powers publicly announced that he was vaccinated against the baseball germ and would have nothing more to do with it. A message from Toronto last evening states that the Canuck promoters are sore because of the attitude displayed in this city when there was some chance of the St. Thomas outfit being boxled over to Mahoningo' chief source of revenue, and they are going to get busy with the moguls of the high court of baseball in an effort to win a territorial right in this city. When this match is accomplished, the Canadians will probably assault the burg with class C ball, which they testify at times looks like genuine big league stuff.

This is a unique attitude for an organization to take. It is so strange and unprecedented that even the promoters themselves seem to be enthusiastic with its possible success. They point with pride to their work in Erie, when they forced the Keystone state town to accept their advances, after taking the matter to the national board, where the Sailorburg was ordered to form another league or submit to the invasion by the Canadians.

When the Canadians go so far as to try to force their brand of pastime on Youngstown they must mean business. There is a great big chance that they could get by with such a case if taken to the proper authorities, but unfortunately for them, the highest tribunal in baseball business cannot force Paul Powers to relinquish claim on his ball park.

The message from Toronto is incomplete. It does not even foreshadow what will be done in case there is no ball park here when the franchise arrives. It seems foolish for the Canadians to cause such a stir in their quest of local recognition, for Paul Powers would probably sell his holdings if they but come up with the proper amount of healthy American money.

When Powers uttered his now famous declaration to cease in baseball because of the skimpy plaudits of indifferent crowds and the unappreciative howls of an overzealous press, it is not thought he meant to stand in the way of Youngstown having baseball at the expense of another person than himself. He did say he would discourage the Canadian league by coming here, but it is hardly likely that he would absolutely refuse to sell his holdings if proffered a fair and reasonable price.

AUSTRALIAN PROMOTERS IN UNITED STATES TO SIGN BOXERS TO APPEAR BEFORE RIVAL ORGANIZATION.

William J. Howe, Australian fight promoter, here seeking the flower of the Yankee Doodle boxers in competition with "Snowy" Baker.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 9. Eager to get a batch of American boxers to visit the Antipodes, two Australian fight promoters landed here two hours apart recently, ending a neck and neck race across the Pacific.

They are "Mother" Wm. J. Howe, famed as a football expert as well as a fight fan, and "Snowy" Reginald Baker, representing Hugh McIntosh.

Howe represents a syndicate formed recently to buck the Australian boxing trust, dominated by McIntosh, and will do his best to sign the high class boxers for his club. He arrived about two hours ahead of Baker and got a lead on his competitor by signing up Arthur Pelky and securing a set of the Pelky-Gunboat Smith fight pictures.

"My club is called the Olympia Athletic club," said Howe. "We have an arena with a capacity of 10,000 at Newton, New South Wales, which is near the heart of Sydney. I am prepared to offer 20 per cent of the gross receipts as an inducement to the best boxers."

Baker, Howe's adversary, is a prominent figure in the sporting world of Australia, and is manager of the famous Rushcutters bay fight stadium. He has had a remarkable athletic career. As a swimmer, he was second only to such men as Dick Caville, the fastest member of the famous Caville family, including Sid and Tums Caville.

In Rugby football, Baker reached the highest position that a New South Wales man can obtain by making the state team against Queensland and playing against the British team that toured Australia in 1904.

Mr. and Mrs. "Snowy" Baker. Baker is the famous Australian fight promoter who is here seeking boxers to show in Australia.

As a boxer Baker won the middleweight and the heavyweight championships in the amateur class in a single night. He was a high-class oarsman and in military athletics proved to be one of the best Australia has ever produced. He held the fencing championship for several years and was an expert in handling the sword, lance and bayonet.

"I will interview all the prominent boxers in this country and am prepared to make it worth while for your best men to visit my country," said Baker.

The competition between the two rival Australians ought to make the pickings good for American fighters.

HERZOG WORKING LIKE A TROOPER

Has Had a Busy Session Since He Took Charge of Cincinnati.

SIGNED RUBE BENTON

Cincinnati, Feb. 9.—No manager that the Reds have had for many years, not even Joe Tinker, who was some hustler himself, has shown the winter energy that is being displayed by Charley Herzog. The new Red leader has spent very little time at his home at Alpha Manor, Ridgely, Md., since he assumed the task of pulling Cincinnati out of the hole. He has been dashing from point to point through the eastern country, signing old and new players, following the trail of promising athletes and working as hard as a man can for the good of the club.

But for Herzog's speed and quick thinking Rube Benton might have been lost to the team, for the Feds were after the crack left-hander good and strong. Herzog, however, stole a march on the outlaws by taking a hurried run down to Huckleberry county, North Carolina, and getting Rube's signature to a Red contract for 1914. He also persuaded the new catcher, Holmes, to sign up, after it had been definitely announced that he would not play ball this season, and he has been very active in digging up fast youngsters who look as if they might have a chance to make good either this year or later.

In dealing with the older players Herzog has shown a good head and plenty of tact. He has always been only a player himself until this season, and he appreciates the standpoint of the athlete. At the same time Herzog is too good a business man to insist that the player is the only one to be considered, as so many unthinking athletes are apt to do. He realizes the point of view of the club owner, and will protect him as well as the player. If Tom Clarke, Grover Hartley and one or two others who are holding out are not convinced by Herzog it will be through no fault of the Red leader.

As the time for going south and getting to work approaches, Manager Herzog is becoming more and more eager to get busy on the field of play. He writes cheerfully about the situation, as follows:

"I am looking forward to getaway day, and, while I am not given to predicting, I am making myself gradually believe that we will have a good team and do some better than last year.

"Anyway we will have something to work on and something to look forward to. I do not think we shall stay in the old Cincinnati rut that has been so noticeable during former years."

This is the quiet confidence, without boasting or foolish and false ideas of value, which ought to produce results. Herzog has not made a poor move so far. In fact, every act of his since he signed to lead the Reds has been a smart one. If he is as successful in handling his men on the field as he has been in pulling off his preliminary winter work, his prediction as to a better club than last season will certainly come true.

It is needless to tell Fort Wayne shoppers what they have already found out, that when these "Less-Than-Cost Sales" are going on elsewhere they can always come to the Foster Furniture Co. and still save money and not have to buy "close outs" either. When a lady desires to purchase a piece of Furniture for her home, that ought to last a lifetime, she isn't hunting for a store which is trying to get rid of undesirable stuff at forced sale.

FEDERAL IS REAL CAUSE FOR WORRY

Old-Line Magnates More Concerned Abut It Than Over Schedule.

CONFERENCE IS ON

New York, Feb. 9.—Baseball owners and officers from near and far are gathered here today and others are on the way. The announced purpose of this visit is to attend the schedule meetings of the International league, the National league and the American league.

The real purpose, however, is the menace of the Federal league, which has loomed large on the baseball horizon. The International was the first to meet in regular session. It held its meeting today and discussed the schedule for the coming season. Tomorrow the National league will meet for the same purpose, and on Wednesday the American league will adopt its 1914 playing dates. Through it ways and means to fight the Federal league will be informally discussed so that on Thursday when a joint session is to be held it is expected that plans will have been formulated for an aggressive campaign against the so-called outlaws. President Chivington and some of the American association are expected to take part in Thursday's conference.

Just what line of action is likely to be decided upon is not clear. Several plans have been suggested, but the scheme proposed some time ago putting the International and American association in the cities where the Federals propose to locate clubs seems to be the most favorable considered. Some of the baseball owners, among them August Herrmann, of Cincinnati, are inclined to think that the Federal menace is a bubble that will burst before long, anyway so far as this season is concerned.

"I cannot see," said Mr. Herrmann on his arrival last night, how new grounds can be procured and stands built in time for the playing season this year by the Federals in Chicago, St. Louis, Pittsburg, Buffalo, Toronto and other cities where it is claimed they are going to place teams."

Governor John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania, president of the National league, and President Ban Johnson, of the American, are expected to reach the city late today to be present for the baseball conference.

MAKING COFFINS TO LOSE WEIGHT

Hixon Puts in Time and Keeps Down Flesh at Springfield.

TO FAT LAST YEAR

Springfield, Ohio, Feb. 9.—There is one player of The Reapers who will have to build up instead of take off flesh when he reports to Manager Joe Stanley in April. He is no other than Pitcher Hickory Hixon.

Local fans would hardly recognize Hixon, who is much lighter now than at any time since he made his first appearance here in 1911. Last year he was so big that he was in his own way and the surplus weight told on his effectiveness.

Hixon does not weigh over 160 pounds at the present time, but he is looking the picture of health and he says he never felt better in his life. There is a cause for the reduction in the avordupois.

As soon as the curtain went down on the Central league season of 1913, Hixon went to work at the plant of the Springfield Metallic Casket Co., and he has not missed a day since. His muscles are as hard as iron and he says that his salary arm is in splendid shape.

President Louis Heilbroner's records show that Hixon was the real wild man of the Central league last year. He was most liberal with his passes on balls and he hit players right and left. This was because the muscles in Hixon's back were knotted and they affected his control.

Hixon declares that he is going to stick to his present job until the day he reports to Manager Stanley. Then he will indulge in light exercise and hopes to take on a few pounds before the championship season opens. He returned his signed contract to President Sol Meyer yesterday, and does not hesitate to say that he expects to have the banner season of his career this year.

If he shows anything like the form he is capable of the chances are that his services will be in demand by class AA or major league clubs before the season is far advanced.

BOTH WILL TAKE SHORT PRACTICE

St. Paul and St. Mary's Clubs Preparing for the Big Battle.

SEATS ARE SELLING

Final practice for the game at St. Mary's hall, Lafayette and Jefferson streets, tomorrow night between the Walther league basket ball club and St. Mary's Athletics will be taken and both expect to enter the series with every man in top condition.

More interest has been manifested in this game than in any that has been played this season owing to the fact that both teams are made up of local players, and the combat is to be the first flight in a series that is scheduled to determine the champion club.

Fandom is about equally divided, and each of the teams has a big following, which means there will be some excitement when they get together, as the rooting will be divided owing to the fact that home talent will be battling against home talent.

When St. Mary's team made its last appearance it demonstrated that it is still a fast organization and that the defeats of the season have been due largely to ill luck.

The greatest performance of the Walther leaguers is the defeat of Zanesville and this made some basket ball history as it was the first time any local aggregation had beaten the club this season and the first break in a string of victories.

Seat sales already insure that the hall will be packed to its capacity as the experience of those who waited too long to make reservations for the game at St. Paul's auditorium last week has been a good lesson.

MRS. J. S. FRANCE DIES AT AGE OF 88

OTHER DEATHS TODAY

Mrs. Rachael France, a pioneer resident of Fort Wayne and the widow of Joseph S. Mrs. France had been a resident of Fort Wayne for the past half century. She was born in West Moreland county, Maryland, January 7, 1826, and as a young woman moved with her parents to Pennsylvania where she was united in marriage to Mr. France. A short time after their marriage they moved to Fort Wayne. Mr. France died several years ago.

TALK FAIR PLAY IN ASSESSMENTS

State Tax Commissioners Meet Assessors in District Meeting Here.

UNIFORMITY IS URGED

Fair play in tax assessments was the keynote of addresses made by State Tax Commissioners Daniel M. Link, James E. Houck and Elon E. Wolcott, who met the county and township assessors of the ten counties that comprise this district, which held a convention in the assembly room of the court house this afternoon.

For convenience of getting the assessors together for these meetings the state is divided into districts. Allen, Lagrange, Steuben, Noble, Whitley, Wells, Adams, Jay and Blackford counties comprise the district whose meeting was held here today and there were about seventy-five county and township assessors present.

Daniel M. Link, of Auburn, assumed charge of the meeting, this being his home district. Mr. Link talked at length on the subject of assessments and produced some startling figures to show the wide discrepancies that prevailed in the tax valuations made in various counties.

From tables prepared from returns made by the counties of this district he showed that in the several items of farming implements, household furniture, horses, cows and automobiles the differences as between certain counties were radical and out of all proportion to any reasons that could be established on known facts. In some counties, for instance, horses were assessed at more than double the assessments made in other counties.

Commissioner Link also produced tables to show the fluctuations in county totals from year to year during the decade from 1903 to 1912. The total gains showed by each county for the whole period and the average gain for each years are as follows: Allen, total 25.4; average, 2.5. Jay, total 9.9; average, 1. Adams, total 27.2; average, 2.7. Wells, total 10.6; average, 1.1. Huntington, total 24.2; average, 2.4. Whitley, total 30.3; average, 3. DeKalb, total 24.2; average, 2.4. Steuben, total 14, average, 1.4. Lagrange, total 11.6; average, 1.2. Blackford, total loss of .005 in ten years.

Commissioner Link spoke of the necessity for giving better pay to assessors and keeping them in office and ascribed much of the lack of uniformity to frequent changes in the offices that have to do with tax affairs. He stated that those counties that try to conform to the rules laid down by the state board for equitable taxation would be protected and that those which ignored such rules would be penalized.

Commissioners Wolcott and Houck explained other matters of taxation to the assessors present.

Zero Weather Fails to Seriously Impede Traffic on Fort Wayne Lines.

ELECTRO-TECHNICS TO HAVE BIG PARTY

Will Have Roller Skating and Other Exercises at Rink March 3.

The first zero weather of the winter is not accompanied by any serious trouble in the movement of trains over the steam lines. All had to cut down the tonnage of the freight trains and some had to run their passenger trains with two engines and there was more or less delay in the arrival at terminals but no serious trouble. The Lake Shore and The Grand Rapids and Indiana lines encountered some snow drifts in Northern Indiana and Michigan yesterday, but today the trains are being handled more freely. Three of the freight trains on the G. R. & I. were "stuck" awhile in snow drifts north of Kalamazoo and last night two engines each were used on passenger trains 4 and 5. Other lines report conditions good.

TAKES JOB WITH I. C.

Frank Malone, Draftsman, Resigns Position With Pennsy.

Frank Malone, who was employed in the drafting department of the Pennsylvania shops four or five years, has accepted similar employment with the Illinois Central and has goen to Chicago to assume the duties. He resigned his position at the Pennsylvania shops last Saturday. Frank is a son of Engineer P. E. Malone, who is now engaged in the cigar and tobacco business. Gus Schultz, who was suspended two months ago on account of the order for a general reduction in force, has been reinstated and has taken Mr. Malone's place.

WILL HAVE SPECIAL MEETING.

Electro-Technics to Arrange for Roller Skating Party.

R. O. Orff, of the Electro-Technic club, has called a meeting of the club for Wednesday evening, and urges all members, and particularly those recently added to the roll, to be present. The big event—the roller skating party at the rink—will be held Tuesday night, March 3, and arrangements for it will be made at the meeting Wednesday. There will also be other business of importance.

FOUNDRY BUSINESS BETTER.

Orders for foundry products are coming into the Bass works with more regularity and greater volume now than was the case a few weeks ago. This is because the railway companies, who are the chief patrons of the Bass works, have commenced buying more liberally. The outlook for still greater improvement in trade in this product is exceedingly good.

GOING TO SANITARIUM.

Passenger Engineer John Parrish who has been a sufferer from rheumatism for some time, has obtained a thirty days' leave of absence from his duties on the Pennsylvania and will go to Hot Springs to take treatment at the sanitarium. Passenger Engineer S. P. Craig who is similarly afflicted, is still at the sanitarium and is improving.

STOREKEEPERS COMING TOMORROW.

All of the division storekeepers on the Northwest system of the Pennsylvania will be here tomorrow to hold a conference. They may remain until Friday or Saturday. There will be eight or ten at the meeting and C. P. Cherry, of this city, will preside.

Assistant Trainmaster A. F. King, of the Wabash, is in the city on business today.

Machinists George and Charles Stoll, of the Pennsylvania, are sick. George is a gang foreman.

Ed Krebs and George Hoffman, craters at the Fort Wayne Electric works, are sick and off duty.

Frank Lane, chief electrician of the Wabash, with headquarters in Decatur, is in the city today.

Walter Goll, factory manager at Madison, Wis., for the Fort Wayne Electric works, is here on business for the company.

George H. McClintic, power director of the Pennsylvania, was at Montpelier, Ohio, yesterday to see his father, who is still very sick.

L. Scott, Robert R. Shuman, W. Jepper, Charles Velz, J. F. Turner, Michael Conners, John Moring and E. W. Bailey, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and off duty.

Nickel Plate division No. 513, Grand International Auxiliary to the B. L. E., will have a public pedro party at the hall, corner of Cherry and West Main street, tomorrow afternoon.

David Bent, a contractor now residing in Indianapolis, returned to that city this morning, after spending two weeks with relatives and friends in this city, Connerville and New Haven. Several years ago Mr. Bent was employed as a bridge builder by the Wabash and resided in Fort Wayne.

The big air compressor in the Wabash shops is receiving attention from the pipefitters and machinists this week. Some new pipe lines are being added and some other changes are being made.

L. J. McCulloch, who sprained his back last week, and D. C. Schroyeer and W. C. Kolb, each having a hand hurt a week ago, were able to resume their duties in the Pennsylvania machine shop this morning.

In giving their annual ball this year, Kekionga division, No. 51, Ladies' Auxiliary to the O. R. C., will depart from the usual course and hold the event in Mizpah temple, on West Main street. Previous annual balls were given at one of the dancing academies. The event takes place next Wednesday evening.

The committee in charge of the pedro party at Carpenters' hall tomorrow evening, under the auspices of the Women's Union Label League, have arranged to give their guests other amusement also. Music will be a feature also and the affair will be open to the public. In past winters the ladies were very successful with their public social affairs, because they took pains to well entertain and the same practice will hold good at the entertainments this winter, of which the one at the Carpenters' hall is the first.

Vice President W. W. Atterbury, of the Pennsylvania, has caused to be issued a pamphlet reproducing the editorial comment of numerous papers concerning the record of the Pennsylvania railroad established last year, when it carried 111,000,000 passengers without killing one of them. In a letter concerning the matter Mr. Atterbury says: "I desire personally to congratulate the officers and employes and to thank every man in the service for what he did last year to contribute to what was an achievement of the highest public service."

"I don't have as much trouble in getting lumber today as I did twenty years ago," said a well known buyer for a railroad company. "Of course we do not need as much now as we did then, and the need for lumber is growing less and less each year. Iron, steel and concrete are taking the place of lumber in the construction of bridges, culverts and buildings and the steel car is rapidly crowding out the wooden affair," he continued. "However, nothing has been discovered that will successfully take the place of the wooden tie and until a satisfactory substitute is found wood will be in great demand for that purpose," said the agent.

Car Inspector Foreman 21 Years.

Next Thursday will be the twenty-first anniversary of the day Stephen Schallenberger became foreman of the gang of passenger car inspectors and cleaners at the Pennsylvania depot. Since that date Mr. Schallenberger has attended thousands of trains and his presence at the depot is a familiar sight to travelers arriving and departing from the city. In 1893 the Columbian exposition was held in Chicago and the local car inspectors had the busiest time of their experience, for every through passenger train was run in from two to ten sections. Mr. Schallenberger directed the affairs of his office in a masterly manner, however, and that year his force smashed all previous records for quick work in uncoupling an engine from a train and attaching another. Mr. Schallenberger fell two years ago and sustained a badly fractured leg and last summer he took his daughter, Miss Theresa Schallenberger, to Germany in the hopes that the trip would benefit her health, and these were the only times he was absent from his duties at the depot in the twenty-one years that have elapsed since he assumed his present duties.

GASKILL AN INVENTOR.

Fire Alarm Superintendent Has "Succession" Attachment for Boxes.

After constant work and study for the past few months Robert Gaskill, superintendent of the city fire alarm system, has invented a new device which, if attached to the mechanism of the old style "non-interference" alarm boxes, gives them all the features of the more modern "successive" boxes. The new device has been examined by Fire Chief Henry Hilbrecht and it will be only a short time until all of the forty old style boxes in this city will be equipped in modern fashion. The majority of farm boxes in the city of the "successive" type, but forty are of the "non-interference" style.

The advantage of the new type alarm boxes is that one or more alarms may be sent in at the same time from the same territory without interference in registering at headquarters. It is said that Mr. Gaskill's invention is to be given a thorough test by a large electrical company, whose representative has inspected it, and if found to be operating satisfactory, it will be marketed in the principal cities of the country.

BANKS

There are lots of Banks. Most of them are good. In Fort Wayne all are good.

But some Banks give better service than others, are worth more to their customers, and in general cover the field of banking more thoroughly.

The Saving Department of this Bank is an illustration. It gives all the conveniences of a Savings Bank, the full rate of interest (4 per cent.) of a Savings Bank and in addition the full security of a National Bank.

WHY WOMAN HAS LAST WORD.

Professor Explains Reason for Her Talking Longer Than Man.

Paris, Feb. 9.—The reason why a woman usually has "the last word" is scientifically explained in the Excelsior by Professor Chassaigne. "Women are able," the writer says, "to talk for a longer time than men, and with less fatigue, because of the peculiar formation of their respiratory system. Woman's lungs cover a wider surface than those of man. On the other hand, her windpipe and larynx are much smaller. By way of illustration, let us take two vessels, one wide and the other narrow necked, and we shall find that liquid passes much more rapidly through the former than through the latter.

"In other words, a man exhausts his supply of vocal energy at once, while woman is able to utilize it for a sustained effort."

A SWELL CROWD.

Sparrow—Great Scott! This must be a meeting of the Aero club! What time do the balloons go up?

WOULD WED 300-POUND WOMAN.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 9.—George Washington Jump, a white citizen of Jefferson City, between 50 and 60 years old, wishes a wife and has advertised for one in the Cole county newspaper. He is a property owner and amply able to take care of a wife, but does not care to resort to the devious methods of a courtship, so he has advertised. His advertisement reads as follows:

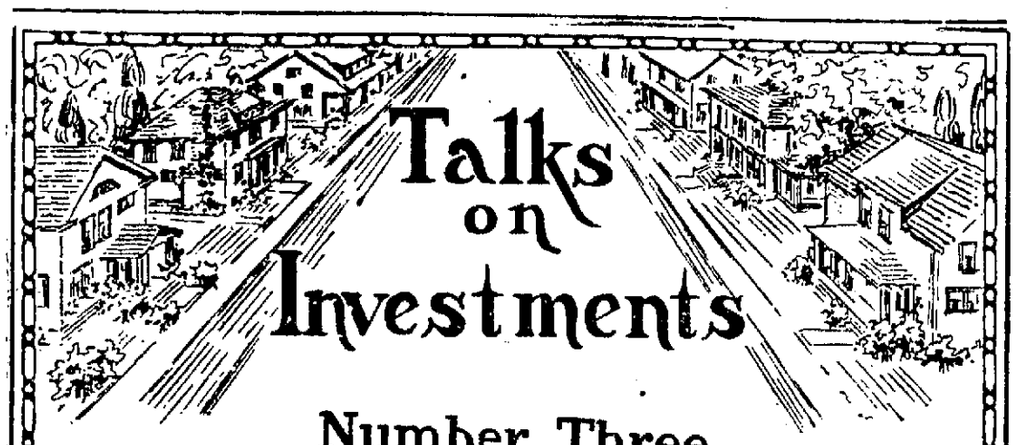

"Wanted—A wife, not over 60 years old; 6 feet high, weighing 300 pounds; must be good looking, refined and agreeable. George Washington Jump, 900 East Miller street, Jefferson City, Mo."

Jump is a bachelor. For years his sister, Mrs. Thompson, kept house for him. She died some months ago and since then he has lived alone, doing his own housework.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts if your Back hurts or Bladder troubles you.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

GIRLS IMPLICATE YOUNG MEN.

Grand Jury Will Probe Stories Told by Runaway Montpelier Misses.

Montpelier, Ind., Feb. 9. City Marshal Jesse Morris has questioned Arlie Cook and Fay Kingsbury, the young girls who run away from this place and were arrested in Muncie and sent back here. It is purposed to have the girls tell their stories to the grand jury. According to what they related to Marshal Morris they will implicate several young bloods of this city. Several names have been given by the girls. The girls will be taken before Judge Eichhorn, in the circuit court, and will probably be sent to the Julia Work home, at Plymouth.

The Cook girl confessed to Mr. Morris and implicated a half dozen young men and placed the blame of her first downfall upon a young married barber. Some of the boys named by the girls are sons of well known parents, and boys who are traveling in good society. The Kingsbury girl is said to have given only the name of one person. This information and whatever other evidence that developes at the trial of the girls, will be given to the grand jury, and that body will be asked to indict the associates of the girls for contributing to their delinquency.

MONTPELIER WANTS REVIVAL.

Women of That Place May Inaugurate Big Campaign.

Montpelier, Ind., Feb. 9.—A tabernacle meeting may yet be held in this city. The movement was started two weeks ago by one of the local pastors who raised enough money to erect the building, but when the matter was put to the church members in a mass meeting last Sunday, one of the local congregation, with its pastor, was present and stood solid against the movement, on the grounds that they were opposed to evangelists.

Several ladies have now taken up the work and are making a canvass of the city, making the movement a personal one without any church being obligated. The sentiment in the city and surrounding country seems to be more largely in favor of the meeting than it was a week ago.

He stepped upon the porch, and was scraping the snow off of the soles of his shoes when he slipped and fell alighting with all his weight on his right arm. His hand was doubled under, and the bone was broken square off. He suffered much pain with the injury, but after Dr. Dando was called and reduced the fracture and he got quieted down he began resting easier.

Mr. Neal will be unable to attend to all of his duties at the National Steel Castings plant but will be able to go to the plant in a few days.

Splendid Model for a Young Girl

BY MAYBELLE MORTIMER.

Here is a model for the young girl right from Madame Cherrit.

The narrow plain skirt is of black moire, and the over-drapery is made of a piece of the moire used lengthwise of the goods, allowing the selvage to show on the lower edge. This is gathered into a band, apparently tied about the abdomen and held up to the waist line by another belt.

The blouse is of black with white stitching. It is very full and shirred at the neck with a round black moire collar.

"Stick-Ups" Cling to Spring Hats

There is no shortening in the height of the "stick-ups" on the new spring hats and, although the plumage of wild birds is interdicted by law, yet the milliners seem to be using quite as much as ever.

The hat shown is of black taffeta with a black and cerise "stick-up."

Almost all the new spring hats turn up abruptly at one side.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" Twice on Wednesday.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," which is announced to appear at the Majestic Wednesday matinee and night, is a play that presents Eugene Walter's ability as a dramatist in a new light. It was no small task to take the widely read book of John Fox, jr., and transfer to the stage the wild, untutored mountain girl, June, and the other delightful original characters of the charming narrative.

There was need indeed of an artist of deep imagination and virile style to catch and reproduce the spirit that Mr. Fox injected into his book, and the fact that Mr. Walter has visualized what millions have dreamed of is apparent by the magnificent production made of the play.

Double Bill.

John Drew returns to this city Thursday with two new plays of the kind that once made theater-going a pleasure for the cultivated. Mr. Drew has long enjoyed the reputation of being the best actor of light comedy on the American stage, and in his latest successes in which he will appear here he discloses new phases of his brilliant art. Charles Frohman, under whose direction he appears, had a happy inspiration in choosing for him two contrasting plays, "The Tyranny of Tears," by C. Haddon Chambers, and "The Will," by J. M. Barrie. In the first mentioned play Mr. Drew gives one of those finished studies of a man of the world for which he is so adept. In the latter play, which is written in three scenes, Mr. Drew successively shows three distinct portraits of the same man, each at a different epoch of his life. Never before has Mr. Drew so absolutely and skilfully effaced his own personality in characterizing the dominant figure in "The Will."

AT THE EMPRESS

In Porter H. White's newest sketch now playing at the Empress is a character whose original occupation was that of a poet—and he has some novel ideas on the subject of poetry. But in spite of the poetic element there are thrills, and also that much sought after quality, the "punch."

"A Vaudeville Play," said an actor, who had made several famous failures in vaudeville, "is like any other play—a little shorter, that is all." Porter J. White, the vaudeville player whose success in his choice of sketches has been a remarkable one, disagreed with the gentleman. "To my mind," said White, "a vaudeville play is unlike anything on earth but itself—I am speaking of a good sketch, of course. Though its story may develop among tragic lines it must still carry the flavor of the swiftly changing vari-colored institution known as the Variety Theater—it must fit in, and the moment it interferes with the act it precedes or follows—it fails.

"The satisfaction," says Mr. White, "is in hearing the public say, 'There is a great bill at the Empress this week.' I believe an audience goes to see an entire bill, and if they don't see a good one they stay away from the theater and even a "fine set" must have a theater to play in."

A rare treat in historical productions will be seen at the Jefferson today in Shakespeare's play, "Richard III."

FASHION'S CHANGES.

As is so often the way in Paris, a new fashion will be announced, and hey, presto! it suddenly appears on all sides, every woman will wear it, and then quick change again, and it has disappeared forever or until the passing of time brings it once more back to favor. Such is the case with the black net blouse which has in the last month or so proved its popularity to the extreme limit. These blouses are particularly charming, being carried out in fine black net with net kiltings as trimmings or tulle ruffles, and are mounted on gold or silver tissue or richly patterned silks instead of the more usual plain things. They are seen everywhere, worn with black velvet skirts and the sumptuous fur coats of the present season, and are most smart and becoming.

Shakespeare's Historical Play "Richard III" a Masterpiece, at the Jefferson today.

ORGAN RECITAL ON SUNDAY.

Two afternoon musicals of yesterday were the organ recitals at the Scottish Rite cathedral by F. G. Church, assisted by a male quartet and the one at the First Presbyterian church by Emil Koeppel who was assisted by a double quartet of singers and by Miss Adelia Reynolds, the young cello player of the city who has made her several years of study count for so much and Mr. Ashbaugh, a well known violinist. Programs at both concerts were exceedingly well planned and in each case gave large audiences both pleasure and profit in familiarizing the listeners with some of the best forms of musical expression.

Story of Richard, Duke of Gloster, afterwards King Richard III, Shakespeare's masterpiece, at the Jefferson today.

FASHIONABLE EARRINGS.

A little while ago stud earrings were almost the only kind worn, then came dainty drop earrings of jewels and tiny diamonds set into a floral pattern, but now these have changed again, and for smart wear one sees none but large pear shaped drops of stones in colors to match the dresses, a fashion which necessitates the possession of several pairs.

Some of these drops are quite an inch in depth, or even longer; for wear with a green gown, for instance, there are beautiful pieces of jade set into platinum mounts, pink agate is worn with red and pink materials, lapis lazuli goes with royal or dark blue, amber or topaz drops with yellow and brown, while amethysts, garnets, carbuncles, beryls and such stones are all utilized for the same purpose with excellent results. For those who can afford it, of course, these same drop earrings can be procured in the more costly jewels, such as sapphire, ruby and emerald, but where many sets are required most women are quite content with the less valuable kind.

WANT T. R. TO HEAD UNIVERSITY WHOSE PROGRESSIVE PRESIDENT WAS OUSTED.

A campaign has been launched to secure 350,000 or more signatures to the demand for T. R. as head of the university. This will be done to show him that there is popular demand for him.

"This university is now ranked as the most progressive in the country and it is fitting that Theodore Roosevelt should be its president," said Deputy Prosecutor Kennedy of King county, an alumnus, who is one of the backers of the project.

"Located at Seattle, Roosevelt would be in close touch with the whole west and with the development of Alaska in which he is keenly interested. With a man with his force at its head, the university would be the greatest in the country."

The vacancy Roosevelt will be asked to fill was made by the discharge of President Franklin Kane by a reactionary board of regents. Governor Lister, fired the board of regents, but did not reinstate Kane for fear that a continuation of the controversy might injure the university. Kane had been in charge for 12 years.

It is suggested that the new board of regents ask Roosevelt to accept the position under his own terms. It has an enrollment of 3200 students, which, by present indications, will be increased next year to over 4000.

FINDS SON AFTER 23-YEAR SEARCH

Boy Was Placed in Home When Only Two-Week Old Baby.

HAD VARIED CAREER

Kansas City, Feb. 9.—A twenty-three-year search, which extended over nearly every part of the United States, ended when Mrs. E. Goldshien (of Cleveland, O., found her lost son, Nathan Goldshien, in this city. Goldshein, who is now 23 years old, had not been seen by his mother since he was two weeks old. In that time the young man's name had been changed to Eddie Gottlieb. He had been adopted by two families, but he had never heard from his own parents.

Mrs. Goldshein, when a girl wife of 16, was forced to put her two-weeks-old baby in a Catholic home in New York city. Neither the father nor the mother was able to support the baby boy at the time. The child had been there only one year when his mother returned to the sisters and asked that her baby be returned. But her request was refused. The one-year-old baby, according to the sisters, had been taken by a family and all information was withheld from the unfortunate mother.

But Mrs. Goldshein's attempt to find her missing child did not end there. A search which was to take up the greater part of the mother's life, and which was to extend from one end of the country to the other, was begun.

The Boy's Adventures.

After leaving the Catholic home in New York, young Goldshein was taken into the home of a man named Vuldrun, in Marshall, Mo. For several years the adopted son, then called Eddie Gottlieb, was well treated. And then his adopted father had children of his own. The young orphan boy was given a room in the stable, an later was forced to sleep in a loft with Vuldrun's dogs. At the age of 10 young Goldshien came to Kansas City. He was adopted by Mrs. Mary Horgan, of this city, and went to live with his adopted mother at 1313 Agnes avenue. He was reared with eleven other children in Mrs. Horgan's family and his life was a happy one.

Two years ago, while attending a wedding at 1317 Agnes avenue, the young man expressed a wish that he might find some of his relatives. "I would give my life, or all that I am worth, if I could only find some trace of my mother or father," he said. H. Sheskin, proprietor of the American Construction company, 3027 Mai nstreet, overheard the remark and talked to the young man about his expressed wish. A few days later Mr. Sheskin wrote a letter to the Jewish Daily Forward in New York. The letter and numerous comments were printed in the Jewish publication.

Another Trip to New York.

A sister of Mrs. Goldshien, living in Cleveland, saw the notices in the Forward and sent a copy of the publication to Mrs. Goldshien, who was then in California. Mrs. Goldshien, upon receipt of the paper, went directly to New York city, where she again called on the Catholic sisters and also advertised in the Jewish magazine and attempted to locate Sheskin or her son. Sheskin telegraphed Gottlieb's name and address to Mrs. Goldshien.

CALLS US GREAT WASTERS OF FOOD

Could Conserve Enough to Feed Millions, Says An Expert

IN FEDERAL SERVICE

Philadelphia, Feb. 9.—Americans are the most wasteful people on earth and could easily lower the cost of living by systematic conservation of the food supply, according to Dr. M. E. Pennington, of the United States department of agriculture, who spoke at the food question banquet of the produce exchange.

"No other civilized country wastes foodstuffs as we waste them," said he. "If all the crops that the farmers raise were utilized, all the meat animals that are killed eaten, all the fish that come into the nets marketed, hundreds of thousands who are now hungry would be well fed and the agitation on the subject of high prices would not attract much attention.

"Conservation of foodstuffs in its broad sense means not only the saving of the excess production of flush seasons for the seasons of scarcity, but it means also the systematic, scientific care that prevents wormy apples or windfalls, prevents the fermentation of carload after carload of corn, prevents the rancid butter from the dirty farm, or the rotten eggs, or the tainted chicken.

"The toil of the farmer results in the production of foods. Faulty handling, from the time the apple is ripe, the egg is laid or the fish caught—for in essentials our fishermen are comparable with our farmer—reduces enormously the amount which finally reaches the consuming center and lowers to even a greater extent the quality of a large proportion of that which is saved from the crematory or the dump.

"Go to any of the market terminals in this city on a summer Wednesday or Saturday between midnight and 4 o'clock in the morning and see for yourself the wastage. What are we doing as broad-minded, intelligent citizens to acquaint ourselves with such facts and to assist intelligently those who are more directly charged with such responsibility?

"For centuries we have conserved meat by smoking or salting, fish by smoking and drying, winter vegetables by earth cellars. Our great canning industry has so improved and developed the elemental principles of the housewife's 'preserving' that it has literally resulted in altering the face of the earth. Man now lives healthfully where he could not live heretofore. Canning foodstuffs has also served to equalize the seasonal supply and is truly conservational. Latest in its development and broadest in its benefits and conserving power has come refrigeration—again a great industrial development from the housewife's spring house, or cellar, or ice house.

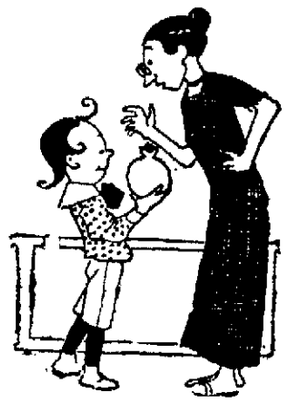

"To refrigeration more than to any other single factor must we look for the

The teacher of a large class sent one of her scholars to buy a pound of plums from a fruit-vender outside, and as she handed the little boy a nickel said:

"Be sure Willie, before buying the plums to pinch one or two just to see that they are ripe."

In a little while the boy returned with flushed face and a triumphant look in his eyes. Handing the teacher the bag of plum, he placed the nickel on the desk and exclaimed:

"I pinched one or two, as you told me, and when the man wasn't looking I pinched a bagful."

SCOTT'S OWN STORY OF HIS TERRIBLE MARCH TO DEATH

Graphically the Explorer's Journal Shows Day by Day How Hope Changed to Doubt and Doubt to the Certainty of Doom—In Its Pages One May Read a Tale of Heroism Seldom Paralleled.

WHEN Capt. Robert F. Scott, awaiting death on his return from the south pole, penned with his fast-stiffening fingers his "Message to the Public," he wrote:

"Had we lived, I should have had a tale to tell of the hardihood, endurance, and courage of my companions which would have stirred the heart of every Englishman."

But, though he did not live, he did tell the tale, and it is one which will stir the heart of every man the world over who is capable of pity and admiration. As he and his heroic companions made their dauntless fight, he wrote their experiences day by day, and the simple but terrible story has now been published by Dodd, Mead & Co., under the title of "Scott's Last Expedition."

CAPTAIN SCOTT WEARING THE WALLET IN WHICH HE CARRIED HIS SLEDGING JOURNALS

THE LAST PHOTOGRAPH OF SCOTT AND HIS COMPANIONS.
(PHOTO © THE INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.)

PETTY OFFICER EDGAR EVANS, R.N.

The story, of course, covers the whole expedition, but that part which will thrill every heart that can be thrilled by tales of heroism and suffering is the account of the return from the pole. Under ten with high hopes, one can trace in the daily record the gradual entrance of terrible doubts which soon culminated in a dreadful certainty, and can see how, even after this certainty became fixed, the five heroes fought on because it was their nature to fight.

All their preparations for suicide had been made, but they finally left the poison untouched and went their way as long as they could move, and when they could no longer move, lay down to await the end. Nothing finer in English history has ever been recorded than the action of Capt. Oates, when, knowing that he was a burden to his companions, he said: "I am just going outside and may be some time," and walked boldly out into the blizzard to die.

Markham's Tribute.

These five brave men were Capt. Robert Falcon Scott, R. N.; Lieut. Henry R. Bowers, R. N.; Capt. Lawrence E. G. Oates of the Sixth Inniskilling Dragoons (nicknamed "Titus Oates" by his comrades); Dr. Edward Adrian Wilson, chief of the scientific staff and zoologist of the expedition, and Petty Officer Edgar Evans, R. N. Evans was supposed to be the strongest man of the expedition, but was the first to give out.

In a preface to the book Sir Clements Markham says of Scott:

The chief traits which shone forth through his life were conspicuous in the hour of death. There are few events in history to be compared, for grandeur and pathos, with the last closing scene in that silent wilderness of snow.

The great leader, with the bodies of his dearest friends beside him, wrote and wrote until the pencil dropped from his dying grasp. There was no thought of himself, only the earnest desire to give comfort and consolation to others in their sorrow. His very last lines were written lest he who induced him to enter upon Antarctic work should now feel regret for what he had done:

"If I cannot write to Sir Clements, tell him I thought much of him, and never regretted his putting me in command of the Discovery."

The return journey began on Jan. 19, 1912, and on the first day Scott recorded that it was "warmer and pleasanter marching with the wind." He was afraid, however, that the return journey was "going to be dreadfully tiring and monotonous." But two days later he admitted, "We are going to have a pretty hard time this next 100 miles, I expect. If it was difficult to drag downhill over this belt, it will probably be a good deal more difficult to drag up."

The first sign of anything being wrong with the party came on Jan. 23, when Scott wrote:

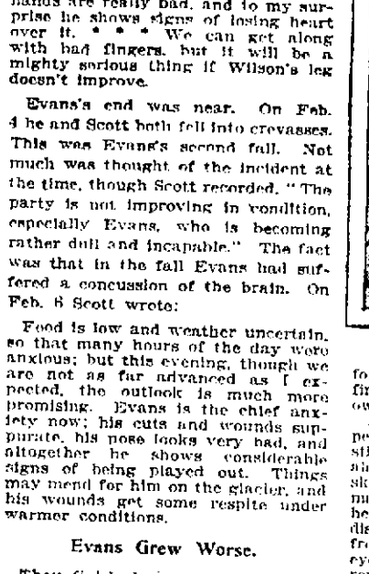

There is no doubt Evans is a good deal run down—his fingers are badly blistered and his nose is rather seriously congested with frequent frost bites. He is very much annoyed with himself, which is not a good sign. I think Wilson, Bowers, and I are as fit as possible under the circumstances. Oates gets cold feet. One way and another, I shall be glad to get off the summit.

The following day Scott began to be worried by the high winds which were to prove their ruin:

Things beginning to look a little serious. A strong wind at the start has developed into a full blizzard at luncheon, and we have had to get into our sleeping-bags. * * * This is the second full gale since we left the pole. I don't like the look of it. Is the weather breaking up? If so, God help us, with the tremendous summit journey and scant food. Wilson and Bowers are my stand-by. I don't like the easy way in which Oates and Evans get frostbitten.

But things moved along rather well from that date until Jan. 30, when Scott wrote:

Wilson has strained a tendon in his leg; it has given pain all day and is swollen to-night. Of course, he is full of pluck over it, but I don't like the idea of such an accident here. To add to the trouble Evans has dislodged two fingernails to-night; his hands are really bad, and to my surprise he shows signs of losing heart over it. * * * We can get along with bad fingers, but it will be a mighty serious thing if Wilson's leg doesn't improve.

DR. WILSON

Evans's end was near. On Feb. 4 he and Scott both fell into crevasses. This was Evans's second fall. Not much was thought of the incident at the time, though Scott recorded, "The party is not improving in condition, especially Evans, who is becoming rather dull and incapable." The fact was that in the fall Evans had suffered a concussion of the brain. On Feb. 6 Scott wrote:

Food is low and weather uncertain, so that many hours of the day were anxious; but this evening, though we are not as far advanced as I expected, the outlook is much more promising. Evans is the chief anxiety now; his cuts and wounds suppurate, his nose looks very bad, and altogether he shows considerable signs of being played out. Things may mend for him on the glacier, and his wounds get some respite under warmer conditions.

Evans Grew Worse.

They finished the summit journey on Feb. 7, and Scott expressed his satisfaction, saying that "another week might have had a very bad effect on Evans, who is steadily going down hill." On Feb. 14 he wrote:

There is no getting away from the fact that we are not going strong. Probably none of us. Wilson's leg still troubles him and he doesn't like to trust himself on ski; but the worst case is Evans, who is giving us serious anxiety. This morning he suddenly disclosed a huge blister on his foot. It delayed us on the march, when he had to have his crampon readjusted. Sometimes I fear he is going from bad to worse, but I trust he will pick up again when we come to steady work on ski like this afternoon. * * *

Feb. 16. A rather trying position. Evans has nearly broken down in brain, we think. He is absolutely changed from his normal, self-reliant self. This morning and this afternoon he stopped the march on some trivial excuse.

This last entry was made the day before Evans's death. On Feb. 17 Scott records that event as follows:

A very terrible day. Evans looked a little better after a good sleep, and I declared, as he always did, that he was quite well. He started in his place on the traces, but half an hour later worked his ski shoes adrift, and had to leave the sledge. The surface was awful, the soft recently fallen snow clogging the ski and runners at every step, the sledge groaning, the sky overcast, and the land hazy.

We stopped after about one hour, and Evans came up again, but very slowly. Half an hour later he dropped out again on the same plea. He asked Howers to lend him a piece of string. I cautioned him to come on as quickly as he could, and he answered cheerfully, as I thought.

We had to push on, and the remainder of us were forced to pull very hard, sweating heavily. Abreast the Monument Rock we stopped, and, seeing Evans a long way astern, I camped for lunch. There was no alarm at first, and we prepared tea and our own meal, consuming the latter.

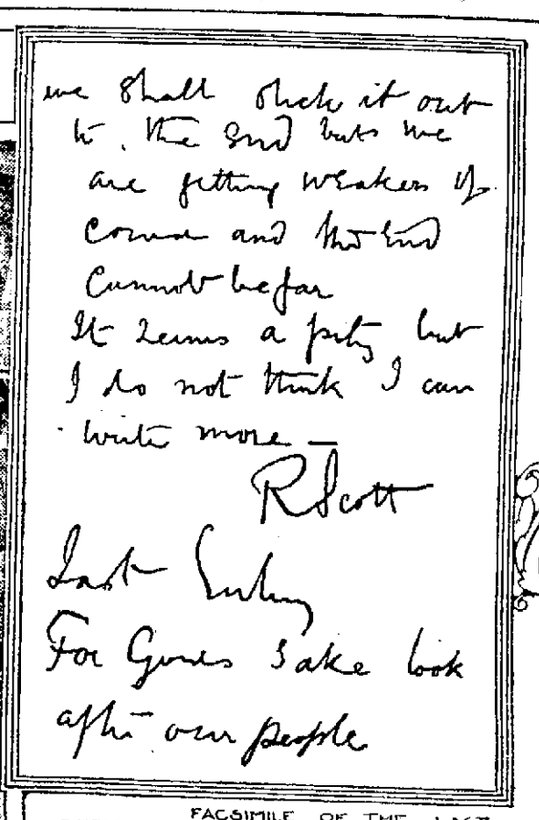

After lunch, and Evans still not appearing, we looked out, to see him still afar off. By this time we were alarmed, and all four started back on ski. I was first to reach the poor man and shocked at his appearance; he was on his knees, with clothing disarranged, hands uncovered and frost-bitten, and a wild look in his eyes. Asked what was the matter, he replied with a slow speech that he didn't know, but thought he must have fainted.

We got him on his feet, but after two or three steps he sank down again. He showed every sign of complete collapse. Wilson, Bowers, and I went back for the sledge, while Oates remained with him. When we returned he was practically unconscious, and, when we got him into the tent, quite comatose. He died quietly at 12:30 A. M.

On discussing the symptoms we think he began to get weaker just before we reached the pole, and that his downward path was accelerated first by the shock of his frostbitten fingers, and later by falls during rough traveling on the glacier, further by his loss of all confidence in himself. Wilson thinks it certain he must have injured his brain by a fall. It is a terrible thing to lose a companion in this way, but calm reflection shows that there could not have been a better ending to the terrible anxieties of the past week. Discussion of the situation at luncheon yesterday shows us what a desperate pass we were in with a sick man on our hands at such a distance from home.

FACSIMILE OF THE LAST WORDS OF THE JOURNAL

Scott now begins to record days of traveling over terrible surfaces and of his vain hopes that he will soon escape from them. "It has been like pulling over desert sand, not the least glide in the world," he says, on Feb. 19, and on Feb. 21, "Heavy toiling all day, inspiring gloomiest thoughts at times." The doomed explorers were already beginning to foresee what their end might be. On March 2 comes this record:

Misfortunes rarely come singly. We marched to the (Middle Barrier) depot fairly easily yesterday afternoon, and since that have suffered three distinct blows that have placed us in a bad position. First we found a shortage of oil; with most rigid economy it can scarce carry us to the next depot on this surface, (71 miles away.) Second, Titus Oates disclosed his feet, the toes showing very bad indeed, evidently bitten by the late temperatures. The third blow came in the night, when the wind, which we had hailed with some joy, brought dark overcast weather.

The surface continued as bad as ever, and on March 3 Scott cried, "God help us, we can't keep up this pulling, that is certain. Among ourselves we are unendingly cheerful, but what each man feels in his heart I can only guess." And on March 4:

Things looking very black indeed. All the morning we had to pull with all our strength, and in 4½ hours we covered 3½ miles. One has little to hope for except strong dry wind—an unlikely contingency at this time of year.

We are in a very tight place indeed, but none of us despondent yet, or at least we preserve every semblance of good cheer, but one's heart sinks as the sledge stops dead at some sastrugi behind which the surface sand lies thickly heaped.

A shortage of oil added to the terror of the situation, and they had only a week's food. The next day Scott said that it was "telling on all, but mainly on Oates, whose feet are in a wretched condition. One swelled up tremendously last night, and he is very lame this morning." It was evident already that Oates was soon to follow Evans, and Scott said of him:

Our fuel dreadfully low and the poor soldier nearly done. It is pathetic enough because we can do nothing for him; more hot food might do a little, but only a little, I fear. We none of us expected these terribly low temperatures, and of the rest of us Wilson is feeling them most; mainly, I fear, from his self-sacrificing devotion in doctoring Oates's feet. We cannot help each other, each has enough to do to take care of himself.

March 6.—Poor Oates is unable to pull, sits on the sledge when we are track-searching—he is wonderfully plucky, as his feet must be giving him great pain. He makes no complaint, but his spirits only come up in spurts now, and he grows more silent in the tent. * * * If we were all fit I should have hopes of getting through, but the poor soldier has become a terrible hindrance, though he does his utmost and suffers much, I fear.

Death Before Them.

"Wonderfully brave" is the way Scott describes the Captain, and he says, on March 7: "One feels that for poor Oates the crisis is near, but none of us is improving, though we are wonderfully fit, considering the really excessive work we are doing." On March 8 Dr. Wilson's feet begin to give trouble, "but this mainly because he gives so much help to others."

On March 10 Scott faces the steadily approaching certainty of death for all of them:

Oates's foot worse. He has rare pluck and must know that he can never get through. He asked Wilson if he had a chance this morning, and of course Bill had to say he didn't know. In point of fact, he has none.

Apart from him, if he went under now, I doubt whether we could get through. With great care we might have a dog's chance, but no more. The weather conditions are awful, and our gear gets steadily more icy and difficult to manage. At the same time, of course, poor Titus is the greatest handicap. * * * Poor chap! It is too pathetic to watch him; one cannot but try to cheer him up.

On March 11 they made their preparations for suicide:

Titus Oates is very near the end, one feels. What we or he will do, God only knows. We discussed the matter after breakfast; he is a brave, fine fellow, and understands the situation, but he practically asked for advice. Nothing could be said but to urge him to march as long as he could.

One satisfactory result to the discussion: I practically ordered Wilson to hand over the means of ending our troubles to us, so that any one of us may know how to do so. Wilson had no choice between doing so and our ransacking the medicine case. We have thirty opium tabloids apiece, and he is left with a tube of morphine. So far the tragical side of our story.

Three days later Oates "got it again in the foot," and the next day he made his exit from the world like an English soldier. Here is the story as Scott tells it:

Tragedy all along the line. At lunch the day before yesterday (probably March 15) poor Titus Oates said he couldn't go on; he proposed we should leave him in his sleeping-bag. That we could not do, and induced him to come on, on the afternoon march. In spite of its awful nature for him he struggled on and we made a few miles. At night he was worse and we knew the end had come.

Should this be found I want these facts recorded. Oates's last thoughts were of his mother, but immediately before he took pride in thinking that his regiment would be pleased with the bold way in which he met his death.

We can testify to his bravery. He has borne intense suffering for weeks without complaint, and to the very last was able and willing to discuss outside subjects. He did not—would not—give up hope to the very end. He was a brave soul. This was the end.

He slept through the night before last, hoping not to wake; but he woke in the morning—yesterday. It was blowing a blizzard. He said, "I am just going outside and may be some time." He went out into the blizzard and we have not seen him since.

We knew that poor Oates was walking to his death, but though we tried to dissuade him, we knew it was the act of a brave man and an English gentleman. We all hope to meet the end with a similar spirit, and assuredly the end is not far.

Blizzard Meant the End.

Even on this day Scott writes that his "companions are unendingly cheerful." On March 18 Scott's right foot went. On March 19 they were three days' march from the depot, with two days' food and one day's fuel. Blizzards were constant. Finally, on the 20th, came the blizzard, which, lasting for days, extinguished their last faint hope. They talked it over and decided that they would not commit suicide, but would let death come as it would. Here are Scott's last entries:

March 29 and 23.—Blizzard bad as ever——Wilson and Bowers unable to start——to-morrow last chance——no fuel and only one or two of food left——must be near the end. Have decided it shall be natural——we shall march for the depot, with or without our effects, and die in our tracks.

March 29.—Since the 21st we have had a continuous gale from W. S. W. and S. W. We had fuel to make two cups of tea apiece and bare food for two days on the 20th. Every day we have been ready to start for our depot, eleven miles away, but outside the door of the tent it remains a scene of whirling drift. I do not think we can hope for any better things now. We shall stick it out to the end, but we are getting weaker, of course, and the end cannot be far.

It seems a pity, but I do not think I can write more.

R. SCOTT.

For God's sake look after our people.

These were the last words in Scott's journal. But he left some affecting letters, one of which was to Wilson's widow, and read as follows:

My dear Mrs. Wilson:

If this letter reaches you Bill and I will have gone out together. We are very near it now and I should like you to know how splendid he was at the end—everlastingly cheerful and ready to sacrifice himself for others, never a word of blame to me for leading him into this mess. He is not suffering, luckily, at least only minor discomforts.

His eyes have a comfortable blue look of hope, and his mind is peaceful with the satisfaction of his faith in regarding himself as part of the great scheme of the Almighty. I can do no more to comfort you than to tell you that he died as he lived, a brave, true man—the best of comrades and stanchest of friends.

My whole heart goes out to you in pity. Yours, R. SCOTT.

Scott survived his two companions. Wilson and Bowers were found in the attitude of sleep, their sleeping-bags closed over their heads as they would naturally close them. Scott, the last to go, had thrown back the flaps of his sleeping-bag and opened his coat. The little wallet containing his three notebooks was under his shoulders and his arm flung across Wilson's body. So they were found eight months later.

LIEUT. H. R. BOWERS "BIRDIE"

PEARY—"THE DEGREE OF THE FROZEN SEA"

THE mad winds rage 'round his icy cage
And the blinding snows sweep by.
Back from the pole the white dunes roll
To the rim of the listless sky.
The ghastly plain burns in his brain
A delirium, strange and wild.
He hears the tread of nations dead
Where the treacherous drifts are piled.

She lured them along with her magic song
Through the dim, enchanted light.
Now the bitter winds chant requiems
O'er their sepulchres of white.
She has fashioned a bed for her martyred dead
In the lap of the drifted snows,
Her croon-song wild soothes each trail-spent child,
'Mid the roar of the grinding floes.

With song and shout, the hosts rush out
O'er the fields of deadly snow
The hidden pole is their fatal goal,
As it was in the long ago.

No pause or slack, as the yelping pack
Swings over the wastes afar,
And those who fall mark the gruesome trail
That sweeps to the polar star.

He hears the song of the martyred throng

And he feels the thrill of their hopes and fears,
The ages dim call out to him
Across the gulf of vanished years.
The parrots scream, in his frenzied dream,
And deep beneath the floe
He sees the hosts on the tropic coasts
Of a million years ago.

The spicy breeze sings in the trees,
The infant world knows not a care.
The lions call, when the shadows fall
O'er the mammoth's reedy lair.
With spears of gold the clans of old
Follow the chase with bated breath,
With instinct sure, they take the spoor,
Sounding the rally-call of death.

He stands alone, in the frozen zone,
Where the bleak sides bend o'erhead;
He drinks a toast to the barren coast
And the North-god's martyred dead.
He joins hands with the voiceless bands
Where the ancient city stood.
He takes the Degree of the Frozen Sea
With the Silent Brotherhood.

CHART PITT.

Northland Camp

THE lazy shadows of Winter creep
Where the lonely hills of the Northland sleep;
The cold wind plays where the snow-drifts lie,
A pallid waste 'neath the Arctic sky.

We sing our songs by the campfire's blaze—
Songs we learned in the olden days;
Dreaming our dreams when the wild Geese bring
A word of hope from the coming Spring.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Evidence that a fair amount of export business was in progress tended today to lift the wheat market. Return of mild weather in the United States winter wheat belt, however, acted as a check on the advance. Opening prices, which were ⅛c to ¼c@⅜c higher, were followed by a dip, but then the market again showed strength.
The close was easy at a net advance of a shade.
Corn suffered from lack of demand. Quotations started unchanged to ⅛@¼c lower, and underwent a further sag.
The close was heavy at a decline of ½@¾c net.
In oats a little speculative buying kept prices comparatively steady. Some, but not all of the purchasers, were shorts.
Higher prices for hogs gave firmness to provisions. Initial sales ranged from Saturday night's level to 5c advance, with later transactions holding the gain.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Feb. 9—The supply of stocks was not large when trading began today, and although business was on a comparatively small scale, prices rose smartly. American Tobacco made the best showing, advancing 3½ points. Gains of about a point were made by Reading, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, New York Central, Rock Island preferred and American Car and Foundry. International Harvester fell one point.
After a brisk advance in the early session the market grew quiet today, but prices were well maintained.
Buying of the coppers in spite of the fall in the metal prices abroad was regarded as forecasting a strong monthly statement by the producers. Forced liquidation of Rock Island securities carried them down abruptly to new low records, which checked the advance. Bonds were irregular.
The market closed heavy. Unloading of stocks bought for the long account and selling by the bear faction completed the rout of the bull interests. The break in various low priced issue had a damaging influence. Prices of the active issues shaded further but net changes as a rule were unimportant.

BURKE SUSPENDED BY COL. GOETHALS

Col. Goethals, at the direction of Secretary Garrison, will turn Burke's case over to the United States attorney at New York.

Col. Goethals' action came at the conclusion of the hearing in which he gave Burke a chance to clear himself of the charge that he had accepted gratuities and had been guilty of irregular business transactions. Col. Goethals also suspended W. F. Shipley, chief clerk of the subsistence department, the reason given being "incompetence."

Col. Goethals had yesterday received the report made by Mr. Nye, the special agent appointed to investigate the charges against John Burke. He then informed Burke that he had given him a chance to explain and produce evidence of the innocence of his transactions and of how he came to be possessed of so much real estate in the United States and Canada and of large deposits in Indianapolis and Colon banks.

The voice of Col. Goethals shook as he told Burke what evidence had been obtained to show that Burke had profited by his connection with the commissary department.

A list of the deposits made by Burke in Indianapolis, amounting to $30,000, and in Colon, amounting to $42,000, during his term as manager of the commissary department, was then read by Col. Goethals. He also read a list of properties purchased by Burke in Indianapolis and in Canada aggregating $44,000, and a list of mortgages amounting to $15,000. All these purchases, he said, had been traced through various persons to Burke.

The colonel then turned to Burke, asking him to make a statement.

Burke, leaning over the table toward Col. Goethals, declared with much emotion:

"I can look you or any other man in the eye and tell you I am innocent. You have not found one thing in the record of the secret service that varies from my previous statements. I want to say right here I have never taken a cent of money in my life and I will go before any court for vindication."

BIG ICE HARVEST IN ZERO WEATHER

In addition to furnishing ice for the boys to skate on and work for the plumber in thawing out frozen water systems, of which there is a great number, according to reports, the continued drop in temperature increased the thickness of the ice in the Northern Indiana lakes, where Fort Wayne gets a large portion of its summer ice supply, and it is said that the danger of an ice famine next summer has been greatly reduced by the coming of cold weather.

Reports from all the lakes where ice is harvested in great quantities, say that the work is going on with a rush today, and that the ice is in excellent condition. Hundreds of unemployed men have been offered opportunity to earn a few dollars as a result of the ice harvest.

The drop in temperature practically tied up the city Sunday, socially speaking, also religiously. Light attendance is reported by the theaters and in the churches, both morning and evening, the ranks of worshippers was noticeably decreased.

"Since Saturday the cold wave has overspread the central and eastern states, giving the first zero weather of the winter in northern Illinois and northern Indiana," said Weather Forecaster W. S. Palmer this morning "Freezing temperatures extend southward to Atlanta. In the extreme northwest the weather has moderated considerably, but from Manitoba temperatures from 32 to 40 degrees below zero are still reported. Fair weather was general throughout the entire country this morning."

Send Men to Lakes.

Anticipating a shortage of labor at the lakes, and fearful of a thaw, which has been predicted for the latter part of the week, the Moran and the Consumers' Ice companies of this city sent both men and teams to the lakes this morning to rush the work of ice storage.

KOVAC CASE IS ON.

Logan Is Examining Witnesses in Extradition Petition.

Peter Kovac, of South Bend, charged with the murder of a fellow countryman in Austria nine years ago, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Thomas J. Logan this afternoon for a preliminary hearing on an extradition petition filed by the Austro-Hungarian government. A large number of witnesses are to be examined and the hearing will likely continue over Tuesday. Kovac's wife and four children were with him in the federal court room.

After the evidence is taken Mr. Logan is to either dismiss the case or recommend extradition and turn the case over to the secretary of state.

ARE HUNGRY ON HONEYMOON.

Bridal Pair Deserts Farm and Employer Is Sued for Wages.

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 9.—Alarmed for their safety when forty hungry pigs stampeded on a farm owned by Ben Neuner at Cardiff, twenty miles from this city, Max Fisher and his bride of a few weeks, who had been left in charge, set out afoot for this city long before dawn and arrived here at noon. Fisher sought the owner of the farm, demanding wages he claimed were due him, and when met with refusal, brought an action in the district court.

He claimed that the larder at the farm house became empty and that he and his bride were literally compelled to suffer the pangs of starvation on their honeymoon.

HISTORIC PICTURE GETS BATH.

"Signing of Emancipation Proclamation" Missed From Place in Capitol.

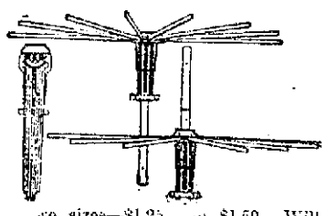

Washington, Feb. 9.—The historic oil painting, "The Signing of the Emancipation Proclamation," commemorating President Lincoln's action in 1862, which for years has been one of the show features of the capitol, had a bath a few days ago, the first in years.

Absence of the massive painting attracted the attention of hundreds of sightseers, who daily visit the capitol. The painting was presented to the government in 1878 by Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson.

RED PEPPER AS A LIFE ELIXIR

Thirst is Produced and Life is Prolonged by Drinking.

DRINK MORE WATER

How to Beat Osler Theory.
Eat red pepper.
Eschew black pepper, tea and coffee.
Do not "stuff."
Drink a gallon of water every day.
Breathe deeply.
Keep out of doors as much as possible.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 9.—"Overeating puts more people in the graveyard than overdrinking." That is the basis of the longevity rules of Dr. W. P. Horton, Cleveland physician, who is sixty years old, but looks forty. He says he "feels thirty," and on the old theory that "woman, poor thing, is as old as she looks, but a man's just as young as he feels," he says he is only thirty.

Dr. Horton is "husky," clear-eyed and the glow of health is reflected in his cheeks.

"I have been making a study of people for forty years," said Dr. Horton. "The trouble with most of them is that they 'exist' too fast. They don't live. In these days we don't really eat. We swallow predigested foods. We drink tea, coffee and other stimulants in ever-increasing quantities. We exist in overheated, steam-heated atmospheres. We spend too much time in stuffy, unventilated street cars and not enough in the open air.

"Our children skate in indoor rinks, our men play pool and poker in smoke-filled rooms, our women play bridge in close drawing rooms. If there was more walking to school by children, walking at least part of the way to office by men and walking to market by the women we would all be better off. This artificiality is telling on us. Instead of controlling our muscles and nerves, our muscles and nerves control us.

"Such stimulants as coffee and tea contain ingredients, such as tannin, which close the glands which contain the fluids of life. These ingredients are contained in white and black pepper, as well as in tea and coffee. Red pepper, however, has the opposite effect. It opens the glands and keeps the life fluids racing within us. In addition, it creates a thirst for water, which, by the way, is about as near the 'waters of youth' or the 'elixir of life' as has been found. It is almost impossible for anyone to drink too much water. The body can not be flushed too often. Drink more water and eat less food, even of the right kind, and you'll see how much better off you are both physically and mentally."
